Little Hope for the Recovery of Gen. Sheridan.

EACH ATTACK LEAVES HIM WEAKER

Have You Heard from Oregon?' Becomes a Party Cry in Congress—House Proceedings—Notes

WASHINGTON, June 8.—At 10 o'clock this morning it was stated that Gen. Sheridan's mind had remained perfectly clear. He was resting quietly, and with little or no pain, and for the time being his condition was slightly improved. The organic diseases from which he suffers, however, remain unyielding. He was more or less delirious all through the night, it is evident, but he could not recognize the members of his family nor his physicians, and refused to take any medicine or nourishment. About 4 o'clock this morning his mind changed and he readily took peptonized milk. Each of the several attacks which he had lately have left him much weaker than the previous one. His rallies are but partial and unsatisfactory and all agree that his case is a most desperate one. From information received from high sources it is believed the end is not far off.

11 A. M.—Gen. Sheridan has been resting tranquilly all morning. His pulse is about 106, respiration 38, but varying; skin warm and moist. He coughs but little, and his mind is clear.

At 10 o'clock Gen. Sheridan is resting easily and there is no change in his condition.

A QUIET AFTERNOON.

8:30 P. M.—This afternoon has been a quiet one without any incident worthy of mention. Sheridan's pulse is 108, respiration 38, temperature normal and his mind is perfectly clear. During the day he has shown great interest in current news.

DR. PEPPER.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Dr. Wm. Pepper said to-night that he could add nothing to the information contained in the published bulletins of to-day, except to say that all of the intelligence from Washington indicates that Sheridan had a very good day.

The fact of the bulletins being of uniform favor all the time the doctor said indicated that his improvement of the morning had been well maintained. Dr. Pepper will not go to Washington to-night, nor will he again visit there until notified by his colleagues in the case that his presence is necessary.

UNABLE TO RALLY.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Though there has been no decided change for the worse in Gen. Sheridan's condition during the day, yet during the last twenty-four hours the situation has not been encouraging for him. There has been a continuance of the high respiration which marked the decided congestion of the lungs, and the difficulty in breathing weakened him and prevented him from securing much needed rest. Heretofore there has uniformly been improvement after each attack of the heart, but now the patient does not seem able to rally.

"HAVE YOU HEARD FROM OREGON?"

The Slogan of Republicans in the House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Those who were lucky enough to stroll into the house galleries yesterday were afforded more than usual amusement. It looked as though a fragment of the St. Louis convention had assembled at the capitol. To-day's proceedings were by far the most lively that have occurred in the house for some time. There were many sharp altercations between the two parties over the tariff measure, which is still progressing slowly. The air was filled with campaign rhetoric. Owing to the early adjournment of the senate there was a fair-sized audience in the galleries. The republicans taunted their opponents, whenever enthusiasm was aroused over the ticket named by their party, with the enquiry—"Have you heard from Oregon?" and when the news of the unanimous nomination of Thurman was proclaimed to the house such tumultuous applause as followed has not been elicited for some time, the republicans also joining in, to a certain extent. The applause was accompanied by the waving of bandanas on the democratic side, the republicans exclaiming in exultant shouts their satisfaction over the victory in Oregon—"Have you heard from Oregon?—Have you heard from Oregon?"

When the applause over the nomination of Thurman had subsided, an amusing incident occurred in which two of California's representatives figured conspicuously. Representative Biggs arose from his seat and in a voice trembling with excitement but barely audible owing to the enthusiasm which was being manifested, exclaimed: "I have worked for Thurman for sixteen years and at last I have succeeded in getting him." He turned and threw his arms about Representative Felton, who had been sitting beside him. This was greeted with applause and laughter from every one present.

On hearing this remark of Mr. Biggs's some excited republican shouted, "Yes, and you will bury him in November." The house then regained its ordinary decorum and resumed discussion of the tariff bill.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

A Resolution Regarding Reprisal Against Canada in Certain Cases.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Dingley, of Maine, from the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, reported back a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to whether any order is now in force by which vessels from United States ports are required to pay less tolls passing through the Welland and other Canadian canals when they pursue their voyage by way of the St. Lawrence and Montreal, than when they pursue their voyage by way of Lake Ontario to American ports, and whether additional legislation is necessary to authorize the secretary of the treasury to impose additional tolls upon vessels passing through the Sault Ste. Marie and St. Claire flats canal, bound to Canadian ports, in case the Dominion authorities continue the discrimination against vessels bound to American ports. Adopted.

The tariff bill was then taken up in committee of the whole, the salt paragraph being under consideration. After an extended debate participated in by a large number of members of the house, a vote was taken on a motion made by Burrows to strike out the paragraph, and it was rejected.

An amendment offered by Grosvenor, of Ohio, to exclude bulk salt from the free list, admitting only dairy and table salt, met with similar fate. This concluded consideration of the salt paragraph.

Bayne, of Pennsylvania, offered an amendment to insert rice cleaned and uncleaned, in the free list. Rejected.

The four lines relating to flax were read and Brown, of Indiana, moved to strike them out of the free list. Pending debate the committee rose.

The house then took a recess until 8 o'clock, evening session to be for the consideration of private pension bills.

At the evening session the house passed thirty-three private pension bills, and at 10:30 o'clock adjourned.

THE ALBATROSS.

She is Lying at San Francisco For Lack of Funds.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The secretary of the treasury transmitted to the house to-day a letter of Fish Commissioner McDonald, making an estimate of 5000 as the amount of deficiency required to pay the cost of the trip of the United States fish commission steamer Albatross, now at San Francisco. The fish commissioner urges immediate action, as the work in Alaskan and North Pacific waters, for which the vessel was sent to the Pacific coast, cannot be proceeded with owing to lack of funds.

It will be absolutely necessary, the commissioner said, for all supplies to be purchased in San Francisco before the vessel starts.

Of Interest to the Northwest.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The following postoffice has been established, and postmaster appointed: At Rudd, Snohomish county, W. T., C. B. Miller was appointed postmaster.

A pension was to-day granted to Elizabeth, widow of Benjamin M. Clampett, East Portland.

In compliance with petitions from people on route from Prineville, by Howard and Crescent, to Mitchell, in Oregon, Representative Hermann has secured from the postmaster-general an order for a postal service which will be advertised at once and bids invited.

Senator Mitchell has presented to the senate a petition from citizens of Lane and Benton counties, Oregon, praying for the passage of amendments to the act of May 5, 1886, entitled an act to protect homestead settlers within railroad limits, and for other purposes. This petition was referred to the committee on public lands.

Senator Mitchell has secured the passage of a bill through the senate granting a pension of $72 per month to Casper Blanke, of Portland.

Pensions have been granted to Isaac O. Johnson, Linkville, Or., and Richard Byrd, Capps, W. T.

The postmaster-general has notified Representative Hermann that he has established a tri-weekly mail service between Ashland and Shake via Baron and Soda Springs, in Oregon, to commence July 1, 1888.

Through the exertions of Representative Hermann the postmaster-general issued an order to-day for an increased mail service to six times a week to Bandon and Port Orford, the service to begin July 1.

Mrs. Melville A. Friscell was to-day appointed postmistress at McKenzie Bridge, Lane county, Or., vice Rachel A. Powers, removed.

J. C. Coughlin, postmaster at Chattaroy, Spokane county, has resigned, and Flora A. Long was to-day appointed in his place.

Jas. M. Turner was to-day appointed postmaster at Tucker, Cowlitz county, W. T., to succeed Noise M. Smith, who has resigned.

The secretary of the treasury to-day appointed John H. Woolsey assistant keeper of the light house at New Dungeness, Washington Territory.

Washington to Have a First Class Paper.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Post says: "Negotiations, which have been pending for some weeks, are practically concluded by which the consolidation of the Daily Post, Daily Republican and Evening Critic has been effected to result in the publication on or before the 1st of July of the Daily Post in its present eight page form as an independent morning journal, the Critic to appear as an afternoon edition of the same. This is a new and for Washington a very important enterprise. Under the direction and control of a syndicate, which was formed by William Henry Smith of the associated press, the present managements retiring, adequate machinery will be immediately provided, and such increase and expansion of news facilities secured as will make the new journals entirely worthy of patronage and equals in all respects to any other in the land."

Bills to be Reported Favorably.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The house committee on commerce to-day authorized favorable reports on the following bills: Appropriating $25,000 for a light house at San Diego; conferring on the president of the United States the right to appoint medical officers of the marine hospital service; and Nelson's bill conferring upon state and territorial legislatures the right to control tolls, rates and fares within the limits of their respective states and territories of all railroad companies chartered by congress.

Favorable Report on an Important Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Wilson, from the committee on commerce, made a favorable report on the bill amending the act granting lands to aid in the construction of railway and telegraph lines from Lake Superior to Puget Sound so as to bring all rates or fares charged under legislative control of the several states and territories through which said roads or telegraph lines shall pass.

Railroad Commission Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The president has appointed a commission consisting of Marshall E. Hinman, of Dunkirk, N. Y., Henry VanEaton, of Mississippi, and Charles W. Graves, of Viroqua, Wis., to examine and report upon the completed portion of the Northern Pacific railroad in Washington territory, some twenty-six miles in length.

Court Martial.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The court martial of Captain Henry O. Selfridge continued in session to-day. The accused took the stand in his own behalf. His testimony ended the case for the defense. Kent will continue his argument to-day.

Bond Purchases.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—To-day's bond offers aggregated $38,000; acceptances, $42,000.

MITKIEWITZ BRINGS SUIT.

In Connection with His Gigantic Chinese Schemes.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Through the attorney of Count Eugene De Mitkiewitz, of this city and Philadelphia, a complaint was filed to-day in the court of common pleas of Philadelphia, against Wharton Barker, a Philadelphia capitalist, to compel specified performance of agreements of gigantic proportions under concessions by the Chinese government, to supply the whole or parts of that territory covered by treaties with a telephone service through a company with a capital of $6,000,000, and to form another company with a capital of $20,000,000 with general banking, railroading and mining powers also under concessions from the Chinese government.

The complaint sets forth that prior to March, 188[illegible], plaintiff and Wm. L. Paine at great trouble and expense, succeeded in procuring the support of the Chinese minister Hoon Chang. The following agreement was then made: A company was to be formed to supply the empire with telephone service, plaintiff was to have three-twentieths of the stock, defendant thirteen-twentieths and Paine four-twentieths. It was to be called the American Telephone Company, and $1,000,000 stock was to be limited to Chinese subscriptions. The remainder of the stock was to be held by a company capitalized at $[illegible]000,000 to be called the American & Oriental Company. This company was to have banking, railroading and mining powers, and concession of such powers was promised by Li Hung Chang. On this promised concession, provisional certificates of stock were issued over the signatures of plaintiff, and donated to Chinese officials.

Meanwhile an embassy was sent to the United States in which was Envoy Makie Chang to see Barker and arrange matters. Complainant states that Chang was taken to the country house of Barker and feasted sumptuously and that the outcome was that a new agreement was made whereby plaintiff was left out in the cold and between Barker, Hamilton Disston, H. D. Fling, Frances D. Shipley, Ezra Bower, Robert Glendenning, Wm. Massey, Thomas Potter, Jr., and George T. Tyler a subscription of $100,000 was raised to meet the expenditures of the Chinese enterprise, Barker representing that he was sole grantee of these concessions. An agreement was then made whereby Barker was made to sell one-quarter of his interest in the American & Oriental Company for 25 per cent. of the par value and one-fifth of the proceeds was to be paid to the treasurer of the latter company. The remainder was to go over to the owners.

An agreement was then made to form the Finance Company of Pennsylvania, with a capital of $5,000,000, all stock to be paid up and each stockholder to be given a part of the stock of the American & Oriental Company.

All of the agreements Barker failed to fulfill according to complainant, although pressed to do so by plaintiff and Paine.

Plaintiff states that through Barker's failure to carry out these agreements he has not been able to fulfill his promises to Chinese officials and distrust has been engendered, which imperils the schemes.

ROBBERS REPULSED.

A Deadly Fight on a Train Near Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 8.—At 10 o'clock to-night American Express Messenger J. H. Zimmerman and Baggagemaster Joe Ketchum were alone together in the express and baggage car in an Indianapolis & Chicago railway train which was due here at 11 o'clock. Zimmerman, when the train left Delhi station, twelve miles west of here, called Ketchum's attention to men supposed to be tramps, whom he saw through the glass window of the car door leading to the front platform, next to the locomotive tender.

Both men arose and went toward the front door. When within ten feet of it, the tramps began firing through the glass window. Ketchum fell, shot in four places, two balls entering his abdomen, one his breast and one his left shoulder.

Zimmerman tried to draw his pistol, but it stuck in his pocket, and he retreated to the rear platform of the car, where he met the conductor. The latter pulled the bell rope and stopped the train.

While this was going on one of the tramps climbed on the tender where he was met by the engineer and fireman and knocked stiff by two blows from a monkey wrench. The engineer and fireman rolled him off the tender while the train was at full speed. Before he was thrown overboard, however, the second robber attempted to climb on the tender, but he weakened and dodged back at the sight of the prostrate form of his companion.

Before the train was stopped more than one robber was seen to jump off and disappear in the darkness. All of them wore masks completely covering their faces.

Police, mounted and on foot, aided by a large force of citizens, are patrolling the country trying to intercept the scoundrels. The sheriff is out with a large posse. A train with thirty policemen went down from here by rail starting at 1[illegible] o'clock. The Kentucky authorities have also been notified to be on the lookout.

At this hour, 12:40, no intelligence has been received in this city of the capture of any of the gang, not even of the man who was tumbled off of the locomotive.

THE CIVIL SERVICE INVESTIGATION.

A Father Who Holds Office and Sub-Lets It to His Son.

BALTIMORE, June 8.—A sub-committee of the select committee of the United States senate appointed to investigate the operations of the civil service methods met here to-day. The sub-committee present consisted of Senators Hale (chairman), Chase and Blackburn. A score or more of members of the civil service reform association of Maryland were present. Charles J. Bonaparte, chairman of the executive committee of the association, testified that a number of federal officials were known to have been engaged in the most active partisan work in the primaries. He spoke of these officials, especially mentioning Morris A. Thomas, Eugene Higgins, J. J. Mahone, and I. Freeman Rasin. He said that these men had bad characters and reputations.

Senator Blackburn asked whether these gentlemen had committed any definite act that witness could mention which would substantiate the assertion that they were men of bad character.

Bonaparte replied that his idea of a man of bad character was one concerning whom general reports spoke unfavorably.

John [illegible] testified that he is a clerk to the boiler and steamboat inspectors and his duties are to make out permits, bills, etc., and examine boats and captains.

Senator Hale asked witness to write a permit, such as he issues from the inspectors' office. The witness replied that he is not much of a scholar, and that his son did that sort of work for him. Witness acknowledged that he had done not a stroke of clerical work since his appointment. The salary is $1200, out of which he pays for his son's board and clothing, amounting to perhaps $12 or $15 a week.

SPEECHES BY THURMAN

The Old Roman Gives Evidence of Great Vigor.

HE WILL TAKE TO THE STUMP

His Remarks Show Deep Pleasure Over the Nomination—He Thinks Cleveland is a Great and Good Man

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 8.—The Thurman club got up a demonstration here to-night in honor of the nomination of Judge Thurman for vice president. Headed by the Fourteenth regiment band the club paraded the streets, and then marched to the west front of the capitol, where a display of fireworks was given.

Judge W. G. Gilmore made a brief speech, eulogistic of Thurman, after which the club and band proceeded to the Union depot to receive the S. J. Randall club of Philadelphia, which arrived at 10 o'clock from St. Louis. A procession was formed which marched to the residence of Judge Thurman. There was a liberal display of pyrotechnics along the line of march.

When the procession arrived at Thurman's residence Judge Allen G. Thurman, his son Allen W. Thurman, his wife and other members of the family and friends were found seated on the veranda.

Capt. Hoffman of the Samuel J. Randall club was introduced to Thurman by President John J. Lenty of the Thurman club and introduced each member of the Philadelphia club in turn to Thurman. Judge Thurman then spoke as follows:

My Friends and Fellow Citizens—I sincerely thank you for the manifestation of your good will and esteem. It has been well said that how a man is thought of by his neighbors, and you can form a correct judgment of that man's character and worth. If I may judge from this demonstration as well as from all actions of kindness that I have received from a goodly number of the people of Columbus for more than a third of a century, I may indulge in a hope that I stand well in the affections of my neighbors [great applause] and when, in addition to that, I have every reason to believe from the attendance here to-night of that splendid body of men, the Randall club of Philadelphia, [cheers] that I stand well in the grand old state which used to be called the keystone of the democratic arch [renewed cheers] and which I hope will ere long become our keystone again, then I shall have every reason to congratulate myself and believe that I stand well with my fellow men.

My friends, I should be the most insensible and cold blooded man in the world if I did not feel grateful for the kindness you have manifested toward me to-night. Yes, and I may say that you have manifested toward me before to-night, and yet I do not know about that quite. I say kindness—was it kindness? I was living in my own quiet home, with my good old wife, and my children and grandchildren and friends around me, wishing for nothing in this world but peace and quiet, when you and others like you forced me once more in the political arena. Whether that was kind or not time will tell, whether it was well advised or not, time will disclose. But one thing I need not wait for time to disclose, and that is that I owe you the deepest and profoundest gratitude, from the very bottom of my heart. [Great applause.] I got so much of that fire and brimstone down my throat that I can hardly talk and that is not very fair, for some of my enemies may say of me that I will get fire and brimstone quick enough without getting it now. [Laughter and a voice, "A good many years yet judge." Cheers.] You will not expect me to make a political speech to-night. When the two parties shall be fully marshaled in the field, when the issues, as the lawyers call them, shall be distinctly declared, when all the candidates have their harness on and ready for the fight, then it will be right for me to bear my humble part in the fray. [Cheers.] Then I give you my word that I shall be heard according to my ability. I think there is life enough in me yet. [Applause.] I think that there is still in this old head some remnant of brains [Laughter and applause] to enable me to tell the people why it is that all my life long I have been a democrat and mean to die one. [Applause.] And I think I shall be able to give them some reasons why they should be democrats from now until they are laid in the grave. [Cheers.]

My friends, it is not my purpose to say anything harsh of our political opponents. That has never been my style of speaking, even when I was a very young man, I might say no man at all, for the first stump speech I ever made I was nothing but a boy. Ever since then I have always endeavored to keep a civil tongue in my head. I always recognized the right of every man to do his own thinking, and if he would only think honestly and be as tolerant of me as I was to him, there should be no harsh words fall from my lips in respect to him, and so it has been that in contests that have happened in our party, it has never been my habit to quarrel with those who did not think just as I thought. I have been before your convention at St. Louis without my will, against my will, as a candidate for a great office. [Cheers.] I was warmly, nobly and generously supported in that convention. I was also warmly and earnestly opposed. Toward those who opposed me I have nothing in the world but feelings of kindness. It was their right, if they thought some other man was the man to be nominated, if they thought it was more politic or advisable, however well they might think of me, to nominate somebody else, it was their right to think so. They were sent there to exercise their judgment and God knows they have created not a single ruffle in my bosom, nor the least symptom of ill will towards them. [Applause.] No, my friends, I am here to advocate the right of every free American citizen to think for himself. I believe in it and always have believed in it as the very essence of democracy and of free government, and therefore I wish to say to you all, so. It is time I was concluding these remarks, and if I do not conclude them soon our friends from Philadelphia will scarcely find time to reach the depot in time for the train. I must therefore bring what I have to say to a close, and it is that so long as God gives me strength to speak to my fellow men, so long shall I talk to them good, honest democracy, on which I was schooled and in which I believe.

And now, friends, I should be playing the part of Hamlet, with Hamlet left out, if I did not say another thing that I am going to say, and which I have reserved upon the teaching of the testament, that the master of the feast brings the best of his wine last. I tell you, my friends, that the St. Louis convention did a thing itself that should immortalize it. It did one which of itself should command the gratitude of the American people. It did one thing which set a magnificent example for all time to come to the American people, and indeed to all other people who have anything to do in the choice of rulers, and that thing was to renominate Grover Cleveland by the unanimous voice of the convention. [Cheers.] Now, my friends, when I speak of Grover Cleveland I do not speak of a stranger to me. I never saw him until after he was inaugurated president of the United States, but I have seen him many times since, talked with him much, consulted with him much, and although I have not seen him for months, I know that man, I think, and I think I know him well, and if there is a brave, honest, upright, courageous patriotic man on the face of God's earth, Grover Cleveland is such a man. [Great applause.] Why, my friends, if he is not such a man, if his administration has not been a grand success, if the people have not found that he was worthy to sit in the chair that Jefferson, and Madison, and Monroe and Jackson occupied, if such is not a fact, how can it be accounted for that he received every vote in the convention at St. Louis, and that there was not a dissenter from one end of the United States to the other? [Great applause.] I do not get such endorsements as that. Traitors to the country and party don't get such endorsements as that; men of small brain don't get such endorsement as that; men of doubtful integrity don't get such endorsement as that. No, it is because Grover Cleveland is upright, honest and a brave, able man that the whole democratic party in the United States, from one end to the other, be it state or territory, be it on the Atlantic wave or be it where the Pacific rolls her mighty volumes of water on our western coast, be it on the great lakes or be it on the gulf, every man of the democratic party, every one who has the least claim to honesty, is heard to exclaim: "Give me Cleveland for four years more." [Applause.]

Now, my friends, I have spoken to you longer than there was any necessity to speak, longer than I ought to have spoken, considering that our Pennsylvania friends have so long a march to make and little time to catch the train. I give you my heartiest thanks for the kind compliment you have paid me, and wishing you one and all happiness in your life, I bid you good night.

JOURNALISTS CALL ON THURMAN.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 8.—A special newspaper train arrived at noon. The journalists were taken in carriages, under escort of local clubs, to Thurman's residence, where speeches were made.

ANOTHER SPEECH.

Thurman Responds to a Call by the Ohio Delegation.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 8.—The train carrying the Ohio delegation on its return from St. Louis, arrived here at 4 all this morning, headed by a band and the Jackson club. The delegation marched from the depot to the residence of Judge Thurman, where Hon. T. E. Powell spoke briefly of the work of the delegation at St. Louis and then introduced Judge Thurman. After three cheers for Cleveland and Thurman and the red bandana, Judge Thurman spoke as follows:

"I understand that many good people may no doubt think—and I do not deny the justice of their thoughts—that I am too old [laughter] to run for vice president. [Renewed laughter and a voice: 'We'll see about that.'] Those people who say and who doubtless think so, do not understand the effect upon an old democrat of such kindness as I have received at your hands, and at the hands of the rest of the democrats of the United States. [Cheers.] Why, I feel about ten years younger, at the least calculation. [Laughter and renewed cheers and a voice again, 'I say twenty.'] Well, I think it will be twenty before twenty days. [Renewed laughter.] Last night I stood here to speak to my fellow citizens who came out to greet me, and, upon my word, expecting me to speak five minutes, and I find that I spoke twenty minutes in full of voice and with immense fervor and vigor [continued laughter and applause] and I should not be surprised if I should make such a fool of myself between now and the second Tuesday, or the first Tuesday, or whatever Tuesday it is, in October—[laughter and applause and voices: 'November']—November I mean, that I should be prancing around making speeches like a young man just out of his teens. [Renewed laughter and applause.]

But now, gentlemen, let me be serious a little while. You know, gentlemen of the Ohio delegation, that when you were kind enough to call on me before you went to St. Louis I told you, and God knows it was the honest truth, that I did not want the nomination; that what I wanted was peace and quiet, but that it was impossible for me to say that I would not refuse the nomination, for that would make me a candidate at once. Therefore, surrounded with these difficulties, I could conceive of no other way, no other solution than to place myself in your hands, and I did so freely, honestly, fairly, loyally, trusting that you would take care of my honor as well as the interests of the democratic party. [Cheers.] Now, gentlemen, I do not undertake to speak for myself and say that you have done fairly and honorably and uprightly by me. As long as I live I shall always bear towards you heartfelt and pleasant recollections. [Applause.] Gentlemen, I thank you for your efforts. I thank you for what you have done, and whether I shall be successful or not successful, there is one thing of which I cannot be deprived, and that is the gratification of knowing that I have the good will of the people of my state, and not only of the people of Ohio, but of the people, I think, of the United States. [Continued applause.]

"But I have another word to say before I stop, and that is this: There scarcely ever happened in the history of this world a sublimer spectacle than the renomination of Grover Cleveland by the unanimous voice of the convention [great applause], and now I say you did a wise thing in that the people of the United States love brave men, and Cleveland is a brave man; they love honest men, and God knows he is an honest man; they love a man of sound judgment, and I do not know any man of sounder judgment than his; they love men who stand up for the people, who stand up for principle and do not fear to take the consequence, and such a man is Grover Cleveland. Gentlemen, it will be an honor to every man of that St. Louis convention, as long as he lives, that he was there to cast his vote for this worthy president of the United States. Now, I thank you, and will bid you good night. [Great applause.]"

THE CALIFORNIA DEMOCRATS.

Their State Platform Doesn't Agree With the National One.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Californians are proud of the part they played in first suggesting the name of Thurman. They are discouraged, however, by the pointed and emphatic rebuke which the national convention of the democracy administered to the democratic convention of California. California democrats declined to endorse the Mills bill at their convention, and preferred to assume that illogical position of indorsing the president's message, and keeping silence in regard to carrying out its principles in legislative detail.

They preferred to cling to protection in practice, but to approve the president's free trade message in theory. The national democratic convention, however, has repudiated, emphatically, this illogical and grotesque position.

Henry Watterson and the southern brigaders have forced the national democracy to take a consistent, logical and candid position in regard to the tariff. They proclaim that the policy of the party hereafter is pure and simple free trade.

They ignore the fact that the revenue might be reduced by repeal of internal taxes, and assert that reduction should be made in the tariff taxes. Thus the southern element of the party repudiates the position assumed by the Californians in their state convention, and rebukes them for the illogical and double-dealing policy which they adopted at Los Angeles, during the state convention.

POLITICAL NOTES.

John Sherman Hopeful.

NEW YORK, June 8.—John Sherman was interviewed this afternoon. He predicts that the republicans will carry Ohio and Indiana. He said protection will be proved to be stronger than free trade. He had nothing to say concerning the democratic nominees, and nothing to say concerning his own candidacy, excepting, "I have not yet been called upon to decide whether I shall enter the canvass against Cleveland."

Henry George for Cleveland.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Henry George, in a four-column editorial in this week's issue of his paper, the Standard, unreservedly declares for Cleveland and tariff reform. He believes Cleveland will be triumphantly re-elected, although convinced that the campaign will be an intense and bitter one.

Ingersoll Charged With Plagiarism.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Bob Ingersoll offers $1000 to anyone who finds anything in his speeches not his own. The offer was made to a reporter who showed him yesterday's Boston Transcript, containing a paragraph showing the resemblance between a passage from his eulogium on Conkling and an extract from Buckle's "History of Civilization in England." Ingersoll spoke of a letter written to the Sun, pointing out a resemblance in his address at a grave some years ago, and Buckle's "Essay on Liberty."

A Syndicate in the California Oil Fields.

THE KLAMATH INDIAN RESERVE.

A Judge Rebukes a Preacher—A Desperate Prize Fight for a Young Lady's Hand—California Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The Chronicle's Los Angeles special says: A plan has been discovered here to purchase the entire oil territory of Southern California by an Eastern syndicate, and put the product on the markets of the whole country, to break the Standard company's monopoly. The syndicate is backed by ex-Gov. Thurber and ex-Gov. Alger of Michigan, and an agent has been here some months conducting the preliminaries. Negotiations are pending with the Hardison & Stewart Oil Company, of Santa Paula, and the Sespe Oil Company, of this city. It is said this was the real reason of Gov. Alger's visit to Southern California last winter. Ex-Gov. Thurber, it is claimed, has discovered a new process for refining California oil that will greatly cheapen the product, while making a superior illuminator, and will render it possible to ship oil East and sell it at a very low figure.

AN INTERESTING DECISION.

The Klamath Salmon Fisheries Legal and Open to All.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The liability of persons trading with Indians of the Klamath reservation has been decided in the United States circuit court in an elaborate opinion filed in a suit brought by the government to condemn a lot of merchandise seized from R. D. Hume, at the mouth of the Klamath river, last fall. Hume hired Indians to fish for him, paying them for the labor in goods. Claimant contended that no liability was involved in bartering with the redskins, as the reservation had been abandoned, and the land was not "Indian country" within the meaning of the statute under which the forfeiture proceedings were begun. An appeal was taken to the circuit court. The decision states that by an act of 1864 four Indian reservations were established in California. The Klamath reservation was not included in any of these, but was set apart to be disposed of under special acts of congress, but not under the general land laws. The judge held that R. D. Hume, owner of the seized merchandise, did not violate the law forbidding trading with Indians living in Indian country. He employed Indians in fishing, and paid them in clothing and other usual merchandise, and the cessation of this trade is not demanded by the claims of policy, morals or humanity. The Klamath salmon fisheries thus become legalized and open to all.

A LOUNGER REBUKED.

A Victoria Judge Makes Unpleasant Remarks to a Preacher.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 8.—Considerable indignation has been caused through Chief Justice Begbie, in court yesterday, making some personal remarks about the conduct of Rev. Starr, pastor of the Methodist church, in the witness box. The clergyman was lounging over the box, and the judge asked him if he would lounge on the other side. Witness leisurely shifted his position to the other side, remaining in the same attitude. The justice asked the sheriff to give witness a chair, as he did not seem able to stand up.

Starr replied, slapping his leg, "I'm all right." The justice then peremptorily commanded him to stand up, and witness complied. The justice then remarked that witness did not seem to have more backbone than a sausage skin filled with water, and was as limp as a dirty collar. A witness, he said, that took a solemn oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and then conducted himself in the manner Starr did, necessarily detracted from the weight of his evidence.

Publication of the remarks in this morning's paper caused a sensation, and there is a general opinion that the justice's remarks were degrading to the bench, though it is also stated that witness's manner toward the court was rather exasperating.

FROM SEATTLE.

A Full Record of the Local News of a Day.

SEATTLE, June 8.—The recent trouble at the Newcastle mine is now being arbitrated. The Oregon Improvement Company have named Capt. DeWolf, and the Knights of Labor are represented by O. F. Wagoner. These two are to appoint a third party, and will probably reach a conclusion to-morrow.

Rev. Horatio Stebbins, an eminent divine of San Francisco, is in the city on a short visit.

Edward Bow, the well-known White river farmer, while engaged in cutting down a cottonwood tree, miscalculated the way it would fall, and was crushed by the falling trunk, dying a few minutes after the accident. Deceased leaves two grown children, and was 65 years of age.

FROM SALEM.

Gov. Moody Starts East—Indian Perjurers Corralled—Etc.

SALEM, June 8.—Ex-Gov. Moody, wife and daughter, leave to-morrow for Portland, where they will join the Oregon delegation to the republican national convention, which starts for Chicago Sunday. Gov. Moody thinks that the republican presidential nominee should come from doubtful states, and for that reason his preference now is Harrison for first place, with Morton or Hawley for vice-president; but his final choice is that republican who will lead the party to victory in November. Gov. Moody and family, after the convention, will go on East and spend two months visiting Eastern cities.

Last night Ah Joe, a Chinaman, was arrested, on a charge of selling liquor to an Indian named Dick Tipton. He was examined this afternoon, and it was conclusively proved that he was in South Salem, picking cherries, at the time Dick and two Indian witnesses, Indian Tom and Laurent Tom, alleged that he gave them whisky. The Chinaman was discharged, and warrants were sworn out this evening for the arrest of the Indians, on a charge of perjury. They will be arrested to-night.

Sheriff Hanlocker, of Coos, and deputy this morning brought down to the penitentiary Billy Quong, sentenced to five years for manslaughter; Charles Moores, one year for larceny, and Victor Halter, one year for obtaining money under false pretense.

Sheriff Charlton, of Lake, also brought down one John Brown, sentenced to fifteen years for manslaughter.

MODERN CHIVALRY.

A Desperate Prize Fight for a Young Lady's Heart.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Last night two lightweight pugilists of this city fought four of the hardest rounds witnessed since the memorable contest between amateurs Chynoski and Kenealy. The names of the contestants were Baines and Bowers, the trophy to the winner being a lady's heart. They were both in love with a young lady. She loved both of them, but couldn't decide which she loved best, so she determined to let them decide the matter in the pugilistic ring. Three hard rounds were fought, but the fourth round ended the contest. Such slugging had not been seen at the City Front Club for many months. Finally Baines got home a chance blow on Bowers's chin, and the latter's head was first to strike the hard boards. His seconds rushed to pick him up before the ten seconds expired, but when he came to his senses he looked around for a moment and then threw up his hands and said, "Baines, old boy, you can have her; I am too weak to fight any longer."

One Killed, Two Wounded, and One More Captured.

He proved to be a brother-in-law of one of the robbers. Two other robbers were wounded, and one of them, Nievas, was taken. He died on the way to Fairbanks, but was identified as one of the first to enter the express car on the night of the robbery, and the one who shot Messenger Hays. A dispatch has been received from Sheriff Slaughter's posse, stating that they had captured the other robber, Robles, who killed Fireman Forbes.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Although the verdict of the coroner, after the autopsy was held on the body of Joseph Morris, the fireman who died on the steamer Willamette, was "Death from alcoholism," other firemen on board the steamer have their doubts about the correctness of the coroner's opinion. It is their belief that his death was hastened, if not caused, by ill-treatment and abuse from the officers of the vessel.

It was reported yesterday that the owners of the land on which part of the Grand hotel is built had refused to extend the lease, and insisted that the part of the building occupying the land in question should be removed at once. E. F. Thorn, manager of the hotel, was seen about the matter last night, and said that he had heard the statement. He leased the land from four gentlemen eight years ago, with the privilege of ten years longer. [illegible] then renewed the lease for ten years longer as provided for.

After a long and tedious passage, the boiler of the steamer Idaho arrived at its destination yesterday, and was docked at the Broadway wharf. The boiler was transferred from the machine shop in this city to the steamer on rollers, and it took three days to reach the journey's end.

She encountered a heavy easterly gale, which lasted for three days, during which she split her lower maintopsail and mizzenstay sail. On June 5 she spoke the British ship Mitredale, bound from Portland, Or., to Valparaiso, in latitude 39 deg 29 min north, and longitude 125 deg 3 min west.

H. S. Wheeler, recently employed by the government in the construction of lighthouses on the Oregon coast, dropped dead of heart disease yesterday afternoon at Alameda. Deceased, who was a member of the Masonic order, is about 55 years of age, and a widower. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Sawyer, formerly a school teacher in this city.

Alexander Montgomery, of Seattle, is at the Grand.

At a meeting of principals and teachers of the school department, held in Metropolitan hall this afternoon, $774 was subscribed by teachers alone toward defraying the expense of entertaining Eastern teachers attending the convention of the National Education Association.

The Faling Dispute.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The dispute over the Faling diamonds will not down. The executors of the murdered man's estate brought suit in a justice's court against Mrs. A. C. Cawley, who had possession of them and who alleged that they had been given to her by deceased on his deathbed, for their recovery. Justice Burke decided in favor of the executor, awarding him the diamonds or $169. The jewels were not forthcoming, however, and Mrs. Cawley was arrested for grand larceny. The case was heard before Judge Lawler this morning, and a motion by the defense to dismiss was taken under advisement until next Tuesday. It was contended by the accused that criminal prosecution is out of place before an execution has been issued.

An Important Insurance Decision.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—In the case of Albert T. Wheaton, of Santa Cruz, vs. the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, the supreme court to-day reversed the decision of the lower court in favor of plaintiff, and remanded the cause for retrial. The case brought up an interesting principle. Wheaton insured with defendant, and, two months later his property was destroyed by fire. The insurance company refusing to pay on the policy, plaintiff went into court and secured judgment for the amount of insurance and costs. The supreme court reversed the decision, on the ground that defendant's local agent had exceeded his instructions from the general office.

Col. Frank Parker.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Col. F. J. Parker and wife, of Walla Walla, are at the Lick house. Col. Parker is president of the board of penitentiary commissioners of Washington territory. He will visit San Quentin for the purpose of investigating the jute manufactory, and for the purpose of reporting upon the probability of a similar plant being made profitable in the Washington territory prison. The territory has appropriated $25,100 for the purpose of establishing a jute manufactory, should Col. Parker find that it is likely to be a paying industry.

A Child Badly Hurt.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Bertha Schaefold, a girl 10 years of age, residing with her widowed mother, this afternoon was sitting on a stairway on the street, when the boom of a blast in the vicinity was heard and a jagged bit of rock came whizzing through the air, striking the child upon the head. The unconscious child was conveyed to her home, and medical attendance was summoned. Her skull was found to be fractured, and the physicians state there is no hope for her recovery.

"Black Arrow" will be his next novel, and "The Master of Barrantry" is in preparation also. He will probably make his South Sea voyage on a yacht.

San Francisco Democrats.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Inasmuch as the democracy divided their ratification of Cleveland's and Thurman's nomination between two parties, the public display last night was not on as grand a scale as had been at first planned. One hundred guns were fired, however. There was a parade and mass meetings, at which stirring speeches were made.

"Big Bertha."

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—This morning "Big Bertha," the "confidence queen," and "Son" Willie, were brought up from the city prison to be arraigned for grand larceny and other crimes, but owing to the absence of the attorney for the defense the case was continued until to-morrow.

They are now in custody, and will probably be examined Saturday. District Attorney Belt has been sent for, and will go up to Fox Valley to-morrow. The Smiths are enemies of the Thomases, and are supposed to be leaders of the vigilance committee sworn to exterminate them or make them leave the country.

MORE MEN GO WRONG.

A Trusted Agent of an Eastern Firm Turns Swindler.

A BOGUS WEDDING TOUR UP NORTH.

The Postmaster of a Montana Town Defaulter to the Government, as Well as to His Associates.

TACOMA, W. T., June 8.—A telegram was received last Thursday by H. A. Harmon & Co., large furniture dealers of this city, from Gibson, Parish & Co., furniture manufacturers of Chicago, warning them not to make any money advances to A. A. Marshall, who has for years represented them on this coast. The telegram came too late to serve its purpose. Marshall had been here and left for Seattle the day before, carrying with him $300 of a loan. A similar telegram was received by O. W. Lynch & Co., of Seattle, but it followed in the wake of Marshall, who had just taken boat for Victoria, B. C., with $300 more from that firm.

Marshall came here with a young woman of striking beauty, face and form, elegantly and tastefully dressed. He led her into the office of Harmon & Co., and introduced her as his bride of a day, they having just been married in Portland and come this way on a bridal tour. He stated that she had come from Chicago to meet him, and made the exigencies of a bridal tour his excuse for having run short of funds and the necessity of asking a loan.

While here they stopped at the Tacoma hotel, and lived luxuriously. Marshall has been traveling up and down the coast for several years, representing, jointly with Gibson, Parish & Co., several other well-known houses on the side, among them the Hauke's Furniture Manufacturing Company, of Goshen, Ind., A. Habercorn, Grand Rapids, and K. Yoeman & Co., Chicago. He has always been highly esteemed and thoroughly trusted, and although not over 30 years of age, has commanded a salary of $3000 and $4000. He has frequently secured advances in this city similar to the present instance, and his checks have always been honored. He is highly connected, being a near relative of ex-Gov. Bartlett, of Illinois. He is known to have been leading a rather wild life lately in Portland and San Francisco. It is now stated that he has been securing loans in the manner stated from customers all along the coast, and that the checks he has been giving in return have just begun to arrive in Chicago, and aroused his employers to the situation.

The woman who is with him is said to be not from the East, but from San Francisco. Gibson, Parish & Co., in their telegram, promise explanatory letters by mail.

A RASCAL TURNS HIMSELF OUT.

The Livingston, Montana, Postmaster a Defaulter in a Large Sum.

LIVINGSTON, June 8.—J. J. McBride, postmaster at this place, left Sunday without stating his destination. It now transpires that he is a defaulter to the government to the amount of several hundred dollars, besides owing private indebtedness to a large amount. Other acts of financial crookedness are also being discovered. He was in Helena on Tuesday morning, from which place a number of checks with Helena endorsers have been received at the National Park bank of this city. Efforts are being made by his bondsmen for his apprehension and arrest. He was seen to-day at Great Falls. His wife, who is here at the Catholic academy, educating herself in music and art, alleges that he cruelly mistreated her, and she will sue for divorce. McBride has victimized citizens of Helena to the extent of $500 or $600, as far as heard. He was appointed by the present administration a little over a year ago.

It was in this building that the first legislature of Vermont met.

When the boarding officer of the commissioners of immigration received from Capt. They were principally Polish Hebrews and German farm hands. He also learned from the chief officer that at the time she left Hamburg there were detained at the barracks in that city over 5000 German and Polish Hebrews, waiting transportation to this country, and that smallpox had broken out among them. The steamship's bill of health was good.

The Bell company, while assuring the people that they will go out of business, at the same time are preparing to resist the removal of wires and poles, as they received their right to establish the service from the state, and not the municipal government. They assert that they will not take advantage of any scheme to evade the law, though many subscribers whose contracts have expired are willing to pay the full rental demanded, and will do it by donation or otherwise, just so they can have use of the wires.

Before they could escape the other car reached the top with such force that it was detached, and came down upon the shocked and bewildered victims of the first car with a tremendous crash. WANTS TO PULL AGAINST SEELEY.

The Victoria Colonist has the following card which may interest an oarsman now in Portland:

By Friday evening's Times I notice an item headed "Aquatic Notes," wherein James Seeley is reported as having determined to challenge the winner of the Paine-Peterson boat race. By previous reports through the press, the public have been made to believe that Mr. Seeley's skill as an oarsman is something greater than that possessed by any of our home men. If Mr. Seeley had only taken time to consider the number of races he has been outrowed in, his pompous declaration might have been unheard of. If Mr. Seeley is so anxious to show his ability at the oar, I am willing to afford him such an opportunity, and will meet him at any time, in any water and for any amount.

C. BUSH.

Gould at War With Gresham.

Washington Special to Commercial Advertiser.

It is understood here pretty generally among the politicians that Mr Jay Gould's journey to the Western states is largely for the purpose of arresting the progress of the Gresham boom. Mr. Gould regards Judge Gresham as an obstacle to his schemes, and it is supposed that he proposes to nip his presidential chances in the bud if possible, in self-defense, and in revenge for the judge's decisions adverse to the Gould interest.

English Frankness.

Philadelphia Press.

The London Times bluntly asserts that the only time an Irishman does any good for England is when he comes to America and votes for free trade. The Irishmen will doubtless remember this when the free trade party comes around begging their votes this year.

JUDGE GRESHAM SILENT.

No One Able to Draw From Him His Political Views.

Chicago Special to New York World.

While his admirers among the republicans of the West are laboring zealously to bring about his nomination for president at the coming national convention, Judge Walter Q. Gresham pursues the even tenor of his way, and to all appearances is totally oblivious of the great honor possibly in store for him. He lives in quiet fashion at the Palmer house, presides over his court in the Federal building five days in the week, and usually goes down to Indianapolis Saturday night and spends Sunday with his family. For awhile he had them in Chicago with him, and they lived in Judge Waite's elegant house on the north side. Mrs. Gresham preferred the old home in Indianapolis, however, and six months ago she returned there.

Judge Gresham is a kindly, genial soul, and loves good company. He dines out a good deal with prominent people, and is frequently found in little dinner parties at the Union League club and the Palmer house. He is a clear and ready conversationalist on every topic but one. Since his name was first mentioned for the presidency he has pursued a policy of absolute silence on all political subjects. Even his most intimate friends have been unable to draw any expression of opinion from him. He will talk affably about anything else in the world but that. When his friends question him about the political situation he begs to be excused and turns the conversation to his farm in Illinois. He is proud of his success as an amateur farmer. Last year he raised a big crop of corn, which a board of trade man offered to buy at a cent above the market. The judge is fond of telling how he refused the offer and fed the corn to his pet steers, and now the steers are worth no more than they were before. Persons who broach politics in conversation with him are pretty sure to get to talking about the farm and the steers in a short time.

It may be accepted as a fact that even the men who are working the hardest for the Gresham boom, the men who started it and carried Illinois into line for it, have no definite knowledge that Judge Gresham would accept the nomination. There is a pretty general belief that he would or he would have said something to the contrary before this, but he has never said that he would nor intimated it in the vaguest way. He has not taken the slightest part in the movement in his favor. No Gresham boomer has ever received any encouragement from him. He has no literary bureau, no lithographs, no pamphlets. In Western phrase, he is simply "sawing wood and saying nothing."

The World correspondent called on Judge Gresham this evening at his modest apartments in the Palmer house. The adopted favorite son of Illinois is the soul of courtesy. He received the reporter kindly, but deprecated an interview at the outset.

"For reasons that are strong with me," he said, "I do not want to appear in print at this time. I like newspapers and newspaper men and newspaper enterprise, but in the position in which I am I cannot gratify the World, I am sorry to say."

"Would you be willing to give the World your views on the political situation and the prospects of the republican party's success in the coming election, without any regard to your possible candidacy?"

"No, I cannot. My idea is simply this, that so long as I am on the bench it would be manifestly improper for me to discuss such things. I am leaving politics alone and attending to my duties as judge. I have made it a rule not to discuss political matters upon any pretext. They have nothing to do with my duties. For the same reason I must decline to say anything about the probable issues in the coming campaign. If I were to talk to any one about these things I should certainly talk to the World, for it has treated me kindly and I admire its enterprise and ability. I appreciate the honor it does me in asking my opinion, but about politics I can say nothing."

"But if the nomination were tendered to you, if it became evident that you were the only leader that could unite the party, will you not say whether you would accept the nomination?"

"There will be time enough for speaking when the occasion demands it. For the present I can say nothing. On any subject that does not conflict with my conception of a judge's position, I will be glad to give the World all the information in my power, but I must be excused from talking about politics."

An intimate personal friend, who has spent many social hours with Judge Gresham, made a similar attempt to draw him out on these matters a few nights ago, and met with a similar reception. All endeavors to worm out of the possible candidate his views, intentions or desires so far as the presidency is concerned failed utterly. Judge Gresham is apparently fully determined to keep his own counsel.

It is the opinion of those who know him best that he will refuse to say anything about his candidacy until after the convention. If he is nominated they surmise that he will accept. He will not turn his hand over to get the nomination, and if it is tendered to him, and he takes it, his views of a judge's position will probably lead him to resign his place on the bench. He will be a queer kind of candidate for the party workers to handle, for his friends say that he will neither contribute a dollar of money nor make the slightest effort to secure his election. That matter, in the event of his nomination, will be left as entirely in the hands of the people as his boom is now in the hands of his friends.

THE JULIA DISASTER.

The Cause Was Explosion of Petroleum Gas in the Fire Boxes.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—United States Supervising Inspector Lubbock has completed his report upon the causes of the Julia disaster, and attributes the accident to the explosion of petroleum gas in the furnace boxes.

Happy Homes.

Much has been written and said about how to make home happy. The moralist and the preacher have hackneyed this theme until it would seem nothing more remained to be said. But the philosophers have gone far out of their way to account for the prevalence of ill-assorted couples and unhappy homes, and have overlooked the chief cause. Most of the unhappiness of married life can be traced directly to those functional derangements to which women are subject. In nine cases out of ten the irritable, dissatisfied and unhappy wife is a sufferer from some "female complaint." A trial of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will produce more domestic happiness than a million sermons or philosophical treatises. It cures all those peculiar weaknesses and ailments incident to women. It is the only medicine sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee printed on wrapper enclosing bottle.

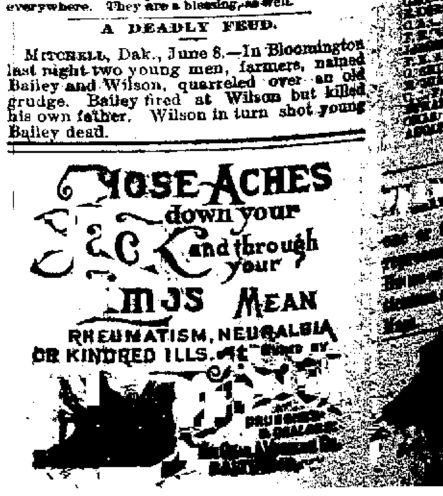
OTHER THINGS DO, TOO.

"Money talks," says an exchange, "and lots of people like to hear it as long as it has cents in what it says." Other things talk too, or, rather, people talk for them, and talk sense, too. Rev. Jas. McSalmon, of Bangor, Pa., says: "Dr. Tutt's are the best liver pills I ever used." That is sense, truth and well understood. These pills are a household necessity everywhere. They are a blessing, as well.

A DEADLY FEUD.

MITCHELL, Dak., June 8.—In Bloomington last night two young men, farmers, named Bailey and Wilson, quarreled over an old grudge. Bailey fired at Wilson but killed his own father. Wilson in turn shot young Bailey dead.



were presented the lady. Number 3, a serenade, from "First Quartette," (Haydn,) for strings and flutes, was a beautiful and melodious selection, and rendered with great sweetness and finished effect. Miss Sarah Solomon was then introduced and rendered a piano solo, Second Concerto in D minor, with orchestral accompaniment. This young lady has a very delicate touch and plays with much dash and brilliancy. Part second contained several splendid numbers. The first was selections from Lucia by the orchestra. "Spring Time," a vocal solo by Mrs. Woodward, was sung in very good taste and warmly applauded. Fantasie—"Traumbilder"—was next rendered by the orchestra. The sweet blending of the melodies, the interweaving of symphonies, the wierd touches, the rise and fall of the tide of harmonies and delicate lights and shades of the composition were simply exquisite. The effect was much enhanced by the sweet and thrilling tones of the zither. "Marchen" (Fairy Tales), a piano solo, was rendered by Miss Sarah Solomon with splendid effect. She was warmly encored and made the gratified recipient of a number of exquisite floral pieces. March—"Tannhauser"—was the concluding number by the full orchestra, and ended a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

A NEGLECTED STREET

One Avenue Leading to the Country Impassable in Winter.

A road from the country enters the city at the head of Grant street, and a considerable number of people enter and leave the city by that route every day in the year, and teams hauling in produce and taking out supplies of all kinds travel that route. During the winter the upper part of Grant street gets in a fearful and sometimes impassable condition, and there has been a great deal of complaint about this matter. For two winters past THE OREGONIAN has given space to the complaints of people living out on the road above-mentioned, but no attempt has been made to improve the streets complained against.

The water committee, who have to supply fuel for the high service pumping station at Seventh and Lincoln, find it not possible to contract for the delivery of wood there on any terms, on account of the impassable nature of the streets, and so have been obliged to petition the council for the privilege of building a plank roadway half-way around a block, in order that they can get their wood delivered.

It might be well if the city would improve the streets in that section, as it will have to pay for the proposed planking and finally improve the street. Something ought to be done to furnish people entering the city at the head of Grant street with a passable street in the winter.

ANOTHER REASON FOR THE DEFEAT

A Bourbon Who Thinks Too Many Democrats Read the "Oregonian."

Ex-Justice R. F. Bybee was overheard by an OREGONIAN reporter last evening giving a circle of friends his ideas on the cause of the overwhelming defeat of his party in the late election. He said:

"I see that several damned fools have been asked to give their opinions, and gentlemen, I will give you mine without being asked. In the first place, Oregon has had a very large immigration from western states, most of whom are republicans. But the main thing which brought about our defeat is that nearly all of the prominent newspapers in the state are republican, and that has moulded public sentiment. Democrats take THE OREGONIAN and half their children grow up republicans. I am pretty hard shelled, but some times it fills me up so that I am almost a republican for a spell. The papers have more influence than anything else. I don't think wool or the tariff made any great difference in the result. In this county a war was made on Joe Simon which scared his party and caused them to redouble their efforts, and they had a splendid organization—never better. I tell you gentlemen the democrats will never carry this state till they get a good newspaper here."

THE LINSEED OIL MILL

Delay in Commencing the Building Due to Modification of Plans.

Although but little has been said regarding the project of building a new oil mill in this city for some days, the enterprise is going forward and is an assured fact. When Mr. H. J. Corbett went East several weeks ago, to make arrangements in reference to the purchase of the necessary machinery, the plans and specifications for the proposed building had been prepared. These plans were drafted on the basis that a certain kind of machinery would be purchased and operated. It was found expedient to purchase a class of machinery not contemplated at first. This necessarily required certain modifications to the building, so as to conform to the plant.

A few days ago the original plans were forwarded to Chicago to the firm from whom the machinery will be purchased. All needed modifications will be made to the building and the plans as altered will be returned to the company. Until these plans are changed and sent back no active steps will be taken, but the delay will be short as the alterations can soon be made.

Contracts will soon be awarded for the construction of the building and also for the boiler, engine and other portions of the machinery. The cost of the plant will be about $25,000. This does not include the boiler, engine, machinery or building. These will cost about $75,000. One hundred thousand dollars it is estimated will be required to place the mill in operating condition. Within four months it is expected to have the oil mill running.

THE CONDITIONS WERE NOT DIFFERENT

An Important Decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A very important decision, and one which will affect Portland as well as other Pacific coast terminals, was rendered by the interstate commerce commission on the 17th of May. The question which involved the principle decided by the commission was presented in the form of a complaint. This formal complaint was made by the firm of Martin & Co., wholesale grocers doing business in Denver, Colorado. They complained that the railroad company charged them more for transporting freight from San Francisco to Denver than for the same class of freight from San Francisco to Kansas City or for points beyond Denver. After a thorough investigation of the complaint and due consideration of the subject the interstate commerce commission hold that it was impossible for them to discover any adequate ground upon which the defendant can claim that the circumstances and conditions of the traffic from San Francisco to Denver are so materially different from those of the traffic from San Francisco to the Missouri river as to warrant them in charging a greater sum for the shorter distance.

The result of this decision is likely to be that the rates from the Missouri river to Portland will be no less than the rates from the Missouri river to intermediate points. Owing to the fact that there is to be an early adjustment and classification of the freight tariff over transcontinental lines, the interstate commerce commission decided that no order should be entered in the recent decision of Martin & Co. for sixty days from that date—May 17.

The Transcontinental Association will hold a meeting at St. Paul, commencing June 15, when the decision will be discussed. It is very difficult to determine just what action will be taken by the association, or what effect the ruling of the commission will have on the proceedings.

MORE FROM THE CŒUR D'ALENES

Mr. M. O. Lownsdale, who has just returned from the Cœur d'Alenes, reports that all the mines are making wonderful showings at present, and that a great amount of ore will be shipped from that country this season. All the mines owned by Portland men have wheeled into line as producers and the hardy Portland miners will soon be throwing silver bricks at birds. The advent of the O. R. & N. Co.'s railroad is looked upon as the agent for the glory of the country, and every one is praying that no scheming may be allowed to interfere with the completion of the road.

The Granite mine has commenced the erection of their concentrator and the tramway from the mine to Canyon creek, where the mill is located.

The Argentine, which is owned by the company which Mr. Lownsdale represents, is a bonanza just now and is the talk of the camp. The ledge of high grade silver ore is over ten feet in width where it has been cut in the lower level. An upraise has been run connecting two of the levels upon which the mine is opened, from which about 1000 tons of ore have been extracted. A very large body of ore has thus been thrown in sight and the stockholders accordingly are very happy. They will proceed at once to the erection of a smelter to treat their ore, combining with it the lead ores of the country. The Argentine ore is a high grade gray copper ore in an iron gangue and is particularly desirable as a flux for the galena ores.

The Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company is not shipping its concentrates at present, and several hundred tons have accumulated at Wardner Junction, where they are being stored.

The Sierra Nevada, with its little concentrating plant, is turning out its daily quota of shipping ore with great regularity and promises to be a great mine.

It is estimated that the output of the several mines will be trebled upon completion of the new railroad, and then all this product will become tributary to Portland.

FOR MUNICIPAL REFORM.

Rev. Ezra Haskell Tells What He Proposes to Do.

He Will Expose the Crimes at Which the Authorities Wink, and Will Try to Arouse the People.

The call for a citizens' mass meeting to be held at the Pavilion on Monday evening, which was published in yesterday's OREGONIAN, has attracted a great deal of attention. The call is signed by a number of prominent men, who make the announcement over their own signatures, that they are profoundly interested in having a moral decent and patriotic municipal government for the city. They feel that the time is now ripe for action, and for a radical change of administration. Rev. Ezra Haskell, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, has been asked and has agreed to address the meeting. It is claimed that the speaker is in possession of an alarming array of facts reflecting seriously on the integrity of many now holding office, and will account for the terrible prevalence of unpunished crime which disgraces the city.

Being called on at his residence by an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Haskell at first declined to say anything beyond the fact that arrangements had already been made to have the points in the address published in Tuesday's OREGONIAN. However, on being assured that the public was deeply interested in the matter and anxious to hear of anything bearing on the subject, he said:

"This is no new idea, no political scheme brought forward on the eve of election for or by any ring in the politics of our city, but a well digested and carefully matured plan for ridding the city of its burden of opprobrium. The matter has been before the Ministerial Union, composed of the clergymen of all denominations in the city, and many preliminary meetings have been held, at which were appointed committees to investigate and report on the glaring abuses and corruption of our municipal government. In addition to this, several meetings of well known business men have been held, at which the matter was earnestly discussed and which resulted in the call for a citizens' mass meeting, as published in your paper this morning.

"I have for the past six weeks made personal visits to all the many dens of vice and iniquity in our city. I have seen all the gambling hells in full blast. I have been to all the gilded haunts of vice as well as the low-down dives, which, though more hideous, are no more a blot on the fair fame of our city than the former. I have investigated the laws and city ordinances and find them ample in their provisions, but they are in a woeful state of neglect and abuse. No more legislation is needed, only a systematic and rigorous enforcement of what laws have already been made. I know of what I speak, and am fully prepared to substantiate all my facts on Monday evening."

"Do you propose to tell all you have seen?" asked the reporter.

"Yes sir," said Mr. Haskell, "I mean to make an expose, and one of a most startling nature to the good citizens of Portland. I hope to arouse them to a full realization of the enormity of the abuses openly and shamelessly practiced on them by the city officials. I want to awaken the people so that they will set to work in a body and purify the city."

"How do you intend to go about it?" queried the reporter.

"Well," replied Mr. Haskell, "I hardly feel justified in saying any more about the matter now. I do not wish to say anything prematurely, but this is certain: Decisive measures will be adopted at the next city election. And now, pardon me, but I really must leave you, my wife is very ill and demands my attention."

THE SCHOOL BOARD

Contract Awarded for Addition to North School—Other Contracts.

There was a regular school board meeting held last night at the High School building. Mr. C. H. Dodd was in the chair and Messrs. Thompson, Durham, Ladd and Therkelsen were present.

Bids for the construction of an addition 32x76 feet to the North School building were opened during the day at the office of Williams & Smith, architects. Bidders were required to state for how much they would complete the whole building and for how much they would do the work leaving the second story unfinished, and to accompany their bids with a certified check for $600. Following is a list of the bids:

	Finished	Unfinished
Holbrook & McKenzie	$11,760	$10,460
Langford & Bridges	11,899	9,789
Thos Walker & Sons	11,400	1,300
A W Scott	11,2[illegible]	1,019
D F Campbell	11,300	9,800
Davy & Stewart	10,549	8,119
John Robertson	11,738	9,406

The contract for the North School building ($8[illegible] for completing the lower story only) was awarded to Davey & Stewart.

The contract for repairing the desks saved from the Harrison street school fire was awarded to Arnold Myers at $1 80 each.

The contract for new desks, some of which are needed for each of the schools, had been awarded to C. F. Webber at $4 80, but Mr. Webber having made a mistake in his figures begged leave to withdraw his bid, which was granted, and the contract awarded to J. K. Gill & Co. at $577 40.

The clerk was authorized to pay the sum of $325 due the city of Portland for the North Eleventh street improvements.

The president and board of directors signed a handsomely engrossed card bearing the resolutions passed last April expressing the respect and esteem felt for Mr. John Wilson on his retirement from the board. The resolutions will be suitably framed and presented to Mr. Wilson in a few days.

The following bills were ordered paid: Piggott & Brown, $67; Moore & Starr, $24 9[illegible]; OREGONIAN, $5 60; City Water Works, $30 70; D. W. Crandall, $14 25; Ellis & Sons, $8 25; Telephone Co., $60; Portland Gas Light Co., $8[illegible]; Sundries, $6 50; Blake, McFall & Co., $[illegible] 10. Adjourned.

TILLAMOOK HAS A NEWSPAPER

The "Headlight" Makes its Appearance—Twelve Dollars Paid for the First Copy.

Mr. G. Cohn arrived here yesterday from Tillamook via the Maddox stage line over the mountains, and he brought in a copy of the Headlight, Tillamook's new paper and the first one ever printed there, of which C. E. Wilson & Co. are publishers and J. B. Edwards editor. It contains the official returns of the late election and a lot of local news. It is a very neatly printed eight page paper and reflects credit on all concerned. Mr. Cohn says the first number of the issue was put up at auction and bid off by C. B. Hadley for $12. The second copy brought only 5 cents, the regular price.

And now Tillamook, the last county in Oregon, has a paper and will soon take the stand to which she is entitled among the counties of the state. The Headlight was received with all the enthusiasm usually connected with the first paper in a town. The proprietors return thanks to every citizen in Tillamook for help rendered in moving in their plant. They also acknowledge the receipt of bouquets, strawberries and cream and also a big strawberry "seven inches in diameter and four inches in circumference." The usual number of persons walk into the office and subscribe for the paper and plank down the cash. The editor gives notice that he will soon begin to review the lives of the old settlers of Tillamook, some of whom have been there for forty years. A stray horse is advertised for, with an anchor branded on his shoulder and 30 feet of rope attached. He is probably a species of marine equine, and is doubtless riding at his anchor down about Dry Stocking bar.

Mr. Cohn states that the contract has been let for a $4000 court house and a $2500 school house at Tillamook, which shows the good effect of having a newspaper there. Immigrants are coming in, four big wagon loads arriving a day or two since from Umatilla county, having been scared out by talk of free wool. They will find clams much more plentiful in Tillamook than Umatilla and will enjoy the change.

THINKS WE'LL GET A NEW CUSTOM HOUSE

A Letter From Congressman Hermann—The Bill at the Head of the Calendar.

A well known business man on Front street a few days since received a letter from Hon. Binger Hermann under date of May 30. Among other things he says:

"I hope to announce in a few weeks the passage of the bill granting to Portland a $350,000 handsome custom house. This bill is placed at the head of the calendar and is the first one to be called when the list is reached."

This is certainly very encouraging news and indicates that Oregon's favorite congressman is laboring assiduously for the interests of Portland and the entire state. If this bill passes and the necessary money is appropriated it will be a fine feather in Portland's cap, and the interest and activity shown by Congressman Hermann will be a very good offset against the magnificent endorsement given his past four years labors at the polls last Monday.

REPUBLICAN STATE LEAGUE

Delegates to the National League Convention Selected—Local Officers.

Immediately after the formation of the republican league of the United States the republicans of the state of Oregon determined upon organizing a state league to join the national league. The idea met with the favor of the republican state central committee and also most of the prominent republicans throughout the state. Accordingly quiet work was begun in the formation of small clubs throughout the state and on January 10, the state league was duly organized. Since that time many clubs have been organized and to-day the league has a membership of fifty clubs in good working order.

The state league has received notice of the convention to be held at Chicago after the republican national convention shall have finished its labors. The Oregon state league has elected as representatives to the national league convention, Hon. Z. F. Moody, Hon. Rufus Mallory, Hon. J. Bozorth and Hon. L. T. Barin. All the above named gentlemen, except Gov. Moody, have been notified and accepted and will be present.

The state league will work under orders from the United States league and be the distributing center for all campaign literature during the coming presidential election. The present officers are Ed. D. Curtis president, Alex Bernstein vice-president and chairman of the executive committee, W. L. Miller secretary and Louis Cohn treasurer. The headquarters have been established in room 30 Mulkey block, corner Second and Morrison streets, where all republicans as well as other visitors are made welcome.

LOCAL NOTES.

Chief of Police Barry and Sheriff Ross, of Astoria, are in the city.

License to wed was issued yesterday for H. J. Roach and Anna E. Green.

It is suggested that there be a general closing of stores on the Fourth of July.

Marinelli's specialty show gives a performance this afternoon at the New Park.

Mr. F. F. McGinn, of 128 Washington street, has a very desirable cottage for rent at North Beach.

The performance of "Our Boys" by the Comedy Club netted nearly $500 for the free kindergarten.

Saturday afternoon is a good time for ladies and children to see the great painting of Gettysburg, Third and Pine.

The Oregon delegation to the republican national convention leave here Sunday over the Short Line for Chicago.

The grand lodge of Masons convenes here next Wednesday, the Indian War Veterans Thursday, and the Pioneers Friday.

Mr. H. C. Eckenberger, general agent, states that the Chicago & Northwestern Company will close their [illegible] office in this city August 1.

County Clerk Church was busy yesterday preparing certificates of election for his successor and the other successful candidates in this county, which the lucky ones can procure upon application.

Wm. J. C[illegible] and George V. Happerly, subjects of Queen Victoria, and Wm. F. Lindhard, a native of Denmark, yesterday filed declarations of their intention to become citizens of these United States.

Mrs. Rhinefrank, an aged woman residing at No. 6[illegible] Jefferson street, while ironing yesterday was seized with a fainting spell which rendered her unconscious. She grasped the hot iron with both hands, burning them severely.

The furor for stock in the Industrial Fair Association has not subsided. A gentleman having come to invest was hunting around yesterday to find an opportunity to subscribe and he never let up till he found the book at J. C. Moreland's office.

Justice Bushwiler, of North Portland precinct, who is said to be defeated by four votes, is dissatisfied with the official canvass, and will demand a recount, which no doubt will be granted. A candidate who is left by four votes only is fully justified in making such a demand.

Mr. John Curry, who for so many years filled the position of mailing clerk of THE OREGONIAN, is lying ill at St. Vincent's hospital. Mr. Curry is a sufferer from consumption and his many friends will regret to learn that he is very low and will probably not survive more than a few days.

The new quarters of the Portland Savings Bank, in the bank building at the corner of Second and Washington streets, are being very handsomely fitted up with counters, ceilings, etc., of curly black walnut, and will be one of the handsomest banking rooms in the city. It will be occupied about July 1.

Articles of incorporation of the Pacific Farmer Printing Co. were filed with the county clerk yesterday, the incorporators being J. Carlston, Edward Casey and A. Fallenberger. The capital stock is fixed at $10,000, and the purpose of the organization is to publish a journal in this city devoted to agricultural interests.

Louis Cohen, arrested by Deputy United States Marshal O'Donnell on election day for stepping over the rope in front of a polling place, was discharged by United States Commissioner Deady yesterday. John Berdon, charged with attempting twice to vote illegally, was admitted to bail in the sum of $500, in default of which he was sent back to jail. He is just down from Cœur d'Alenes and hopes to find some one there to go his surety.

BOB BURDETTE'S LECTURE

A large and intelligent audience gathered at the Mechanics' Pavilion last evening, to hear Robert J. Burdette's lecture on the "Pilgrimage of the Funny Man." The lecturer was introduced by Mayor DeLashmutt.

Mr. Burdette began by saying that there is no new wit, no new novels, no new plays. They all begin in the old way, kill off the proper ones at the right time, marry the principals in good shape and wind up according to rule. All a person needs to become a famous wit is to keep a scrap book and describe commonplace things in a natural way. To illustrate he described a stovepipe, the two dogs he owned when a boy. His descriptive powers are excellent and the entire lecture shows a fine vein of clean humor interspersed with touching points of pathos. In conclusion he recited a poem of his own, "The Bells," showing the auction bell, the door bell and the locomotive bell. He will lecture in the same place this evening on the "Rise and Fall of the Mustache." This is his most famous lecture.

THE DAIRYMEN.

Regular Meeting of the North Pacific Association—Proposed Exhibition.

A regular meeting of the North Pacific Dairy Association was held yesterday in the council chambers, Thomas Paulsen, president, in the chair. He read the following address:

To the Officers and Members of the North Pacific Dairy Association: Our quarterly meeting calls us together once more. How has the dairy interest fared during the last quarter? It is safe to say that there has been a steady if not rapid advance and improvement. The time was when any knowledge or improvement advocated through any agricultural paper was very often sneered at as "book farming" and considered of little value against what was termed "practical" knowledge. But now there are but comparatively few farmers who do not read at least one agricultural paper, and it is granted that facts established by experience and observation by a brother farmer are just as reliable and valuable if published in a newspaper as when given by the word of mouth. This is one point gained, because no one is so hopeless of advance and improvement as he whose conceit leads him to believe that he knows all about any subject or matter. But the word "practical" is very often misused or misunderstood. I have heard it said that a certain man was not a practical farmer. Why not? Oh, he was not raised a farmer, used to be a mechanic or followed some other vocation. Who is practical? Why the man who is willing to apply knowledge to some useful end. It matters not whether this knowledge is acquired through his own experience or that of others, so it is knowledge based on facts gained from and by experience and observation. Every person who is a member of our society and attends our meetings shows thereby not only that he is willing to learn but also willing to give to other the benefit of his experience. And this is what we meet for.

CREAMERIES.

Since our last meeting several new creameries have been started, but there are still many counties where a creamery or cheese factory would add much to the prosperity of the farmers. In this connection it is proper to say that in my opinion cheese factories would in all localities not very close to the city market, return a far better profit than butter factories, the price of cheese being relatively by far higher in this state than butter, especially in the summer months. Cheese also has the further advantage that it can be marketed in bulk, whereas butter has to be sold fresh to realize best prices. There is no reason why we should not produce all cheese needed in our home market, but so far only a very small portion of the cheese used here is manufactured by our own people.

IMPROVEMENT IN DAIRY STOCK.

The importance of grading upon dairy stock is receiving considerable attention by many of our leading dairymen, but there are yet many farmers who seem to think or at least act as if this matter was not worthy their attention, or if they acknowledge the superiority of improved dairy cattle, assert that the poor man cannot afford to get and keep good stock, whereas it is the poor man who cannot afford to keep "scrub" stock, unless he wants to remain poor for all time. By clubbing together any neighborhood can secure the service of a pure bred bull, and there is no excuse for not doing so.

DAIRY EXHIBITION.

Last fall a dairy exhibition was held in this city under the auspices of our society. It becomes necessary to discuss at this meeting whether or not we will hold a similar exhibition this fall. If so it will be necessary to take the initiatory steps now.

OUR DAIRY LAW.

A most determined effort was made in our last legislature to repeal our Oregon dairy law under the plea that the national dairy law rendered a special state law unnecessary. While the national law is of some benefit to regulate the manufacture of bogus butter it is of but little value to protect us against the fraudulent sale of the "stuff" in our markets, and no greater injury could be done to the dairy interest of the North Pacific coast than the repeal of the Oregon dairy law, and whosoever advocates such repeal under any plea whatsoever is and should be treated as the enemy of the dairyman of this coast, and the consumer as well, should earnestly protest against the repeal of this law. It would be well for the dairymen and farmers of Oregon, to call meetings, pass resolutions and otherwise inform the members of our next legislature that any legislation repealing or altering our dairy law does not meet the approbation of our farmers.

After some discussion Messrs. J. B. Knapp, Edward Casey and W. W. Baker were appointed a committee to confer with the directors of the Industrial Fair relative to holding a dairy exhibit during the fair, said committee to report at the next quarterly meeting the first Friday in September.

NEW SUITS

Mary E. Johnson commenced suit in the state circuit court yesterday against Mary [illegible] and others to quiet her title to a certain tract of land in section 21, T. 1 S., R. [illegible] E. Plaintiff claims to be the owner in fee of the land, and defendants claim an interest therein, as it is alleged, without any right whatever. Wherefore it is prayed that defendants be required to set forth the nature of their claims, that they may be determined by the court, and if it be disclosed that defendants have no title, that they be forever enjoined from asserting any.

Yesterday R. Citron began an action in the circuit court against S. J. Fleishar and others to recover $[illegible] on a promissory note made payable to John Klosterman, which was assigned to the plaintiff.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, JUNE 9.

THE ST. LOUIS PLATFORM.

The platform adopted by the democratic national convention at St. Louis is a mass of generalities, only a few of which can be reduced to any precise statement, and these, when so reduced, are uncandid and untrue. There was not even honesty enough in the convention to call for direct endorsement and approval of the Mills bill. On the contrary, there was an attempt to equivocate by "endorsing the efforts of democratic members of congress to secure the reduction of excessive taxation." The country knows what these efforts are. It knows that they have been formulated in a bill that is extremely partisan, sectional and unfair, a bill designed to continue protection to the industries and products of certain states to which the democratic party looks for majorities, and at the same time to deprive other states of the advantages and benefits of protection. If the "effort to reduce excessive taxation" were honest, just and fair, it would not be opposed by the republican party. But since its basis is continued protection for sugar, rice and woolen goods and free trade in wool, lumber, salt, [illegible] ores, minerals and other products, chiefly of the Northern states, it is contested and will be rejected. To this result Oregon unerringly points the way.

"The democratic party challenges the most searching inquiry concerning its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which (in 1884) invited the suffrages of the people. Honest reform in civil service has been inaugurated and maintained by President Cleveland, and he has brought the public service up to the highest standard of efficiency." Never more brazen was impudence of falsehood. The pledges upon which the democratic party invited the suffrages of the people in 1884 chiefly related to the civil service and methods of administration, and these pledges have not only not been kept, but have been notoriously broken. This is not the mere assertion of political opponents; it is the free confession of those through whose efforts this administration was created, and who still are friendly to it and excuse and defend it so far as they are able. Here is the testimony of the New York Evening Post: "The painful truth is that we doubt if a single independent voter of the thousands who supported President Cleveland in 1884, any longer attaches any importance to the utterances of the members of the administration on the subject of civil service reform, or any longer refuses to believe that the president's promises and professions have been violated or disregarded, on a great scale, with the utmost boldness, in sundry places and in divers manners, and that men like Judge Maynard and Surveyor Beattie have actually been detailed or told off to practice as much civil service abuse as can be readily concealed or disguised when they are found out and exposed. Of course they must be shielded. It would be the worst kind of baseness to desert or sacrifice them." Facts like these in every state are known of all men. Not only has not "honesty and efficiency in civil service been inaugurated and maintained," but on the contrary the reign of partisanship in the civil service is complete, and the public service, particularly in the postal department and in the departments of public works, has lost greatly in promptness and efficiency, as the complaints of the people of Oregon as to their postal service and as to non-performance of work on the public surveys and on the rivers and harbors of the state attest to every reader of THE OREGONIAN.

"Every public interest has been protected and the equality of all our citizens before the law, without regard to race or color, has been maintained." The party that puts forth this statement holds power through flagrant and criminal violation of the rights of citizens, and is preparing to renew its power, if possible, by the same means.

"The democratic party has reversed the improvident and unwise policy of the republican party touching the public domain and has reclaimed from corporations and syndicates, alien and domestic, and has restored to the people nearly 100 000 000 acres of valuable land." Falsehood both by indirection and direction. The democratic party has reversed no policy of the republican party as to the granting of lands. The last land grant to a corporation was made in 1870, fifteen years before the republican party relinquished the government, and all the grants ever made were voted for in congress by democrats and republicans alike. The assertion that the present administration has reclaimed and restored to the people 100 000 000 acres that had been given away by preceding administrations, is pretense and falsification. That is, the democratic party pretends to have restored to the public domain lands that never were given away. The claim is demagogy of the cheapest kind. It was the duty of the administration to cause the fences of cattle syndicates, enclosing public lands, to be pulled down. Preceding administrations were continually doing the same thing. Nor did revocation or withdrawal of unearned lands within the limits of railway grants take anything away from corporations, for the corporations had no ownership of the lands, could not hold them and were in position to be dealt with just as the cattle syndicates were. The whole management of this business has been a cheap effort to make party capital by misrepresentation of the actual status of the lands.

"Maintenance of an indissoluble union of indestructible states" is a phrase of the platform. It is a good phrase, but its utterance at this time requires no courage, nor unusual patriotism. When such a sentiment was needed it was not forthcoming from the democratic party. The platform of 1864 contained no such expression. It would have been significant then. Now, it is cheap and commonplace.

Not only was the demand for maintenance of an indissoluble union of indestructible states" omitted from democratic platforms when the words would have been significant, but in 1864, when every consideration of patriotism demanded such an expression, a democratic national platform was issued which declared on the contrary that "after four years of failure to restore the Union by experiment of war, justice, humanity, liberty and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities,"—that is, the country was invited to abandon the war and the Union and surrender to the rebellion.

There is now no menace to the Union. But there was a time when the peril was extreme. Then, however, there was no unequivocal demand from a democratic convention for "maintenance of an indissoluble union of indestructible states," and for employment of all the force of organized public opinion and all the armed power of the country to do it. Instead of this there was a declaration that the war for the Union was a "failure," and a demand for immediate cessation of hostilities." The Southern portion of the democratic party was in arms against the Union and the Northern portion didn't want the Southern portion whipped into submission.

But now, when no danger whatever threatens the Union, when not a hand is raised against or likely to be, the democratic party in its national platform comes up boldly and grandly for "maintenance of an indissoluble union of indestructible states!"

These are the leading features of the St. Louis platform. The platform itself will not long receive attention, since it contains nothing that can be memorable. Its disingenuous generalities will quickly pass from public notice, and the contention for the ballots of the country will be based upon the questions raised by the president's last message and the Mills tariff bill. This is the record to which the democratic party will be held, and it is the record on which the people will vote in November, quite regardless of the contents of the document put forth at St. Louis.

WHAT WILL THE MUGWUMPS DO?

While the democrats are delighted with Cleveland's repudiation of the pledges to the mugwumps, the mugwumps are not at all pleased and confess their disgust without qualification.

The New York Evening Post says:

> "What puts his re-election in peril, if in peril it be, is simply the fact that he has allowed his super-serviceable managers to use the public offices, which no-said were public trusts, to purchase the support of the delegates to the nominating conventions. It is true that his predecessor did exactly the same thing; but then he preferred stronger guarantees than any of his predecessors that he would do nothing of the kind."

The Boston Herald says:

> There has been the insidious excuse of "evening the offices" between the two parties cited above and there has been the pressure of party upon the president in states where the party has been in effect composed in its active portions of nothing but spoilsmen. But these are not half sufficient to excuse all he has done. When we come to add to it acts without any excuse, acts which implied a defiance of him by those who held office at his will, even in their inception, then the case is almost as bad against him as the most inveterate of his opponents represent it to be.

The Springfield Republican and the New York Times arraign the president in terms of unsparing severity and even Geo. William Curtis has endorsed the resolution of his associates of the Civil Service Reform League which denounces "the general partisan changes in the unclassified service, the disregard of the notorious and flagrant defiance of the executive circular of July 14 1886, warning certain officers of the government against pernicious activity in politics, and the president's letter of November 2, 1887, advocating the choice of a particular candidate in a municipal election."

In face of the fact that the president has been persistently false to his promises, as expressed in his letter of acceptance, and his inaugural, what will the mugwumps do? Those who follow the New York Evening Post and the New York Times will vote for Cleve and, because to them "free trade" is of first consequence, while civil service reform is but incidental and secondary. The Boston Herald and the Springfield Republican earnestly advocate revenue reform but consider civil service reform of at least equal consequence and many of their mugwump readers would refuse to vote for Cleveland as against a man like Gresham, who was a moderate protectionist and a stern practical civil service reformer under Arthur's administration. The mugwumps who were driven over to Cleveland in 1884 simply from lack of confidence in Blaine will not vote for Cleve and this year, for their organ, the New York Independent, denounces him without stint, saying:

> His pledges were magnificent; his performances disgraceful.
> His scheme of civil service was fine; its fulfillment a farce.
>
> He sets out to lift the democratic party; he ends by letting down the government.
>
> He began as a conspicuous reformer; he is ending as a conspicuous failure.
>
> We do not want a second term of such a man as Grover Cleveland.

In 1884 the belief that Cleveland was a genuine civil service reformer influenced a larger number of votes than turned the scale in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and now the knowledge that he is a lying, treacherous demagogue in reform clothing will lose him those states.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

Who killed the democratic cock robin last Monday? Ed McKee says the poor little bird was smothered outright in the republican sack. Postmaster Roby thinks that cock robin died of intellectual starvation, lack of tariff education and too much wool on his teeth. Tony Noltner has been looking at the dead bird at some disadvantage, as Mr Noltner is in St. Louis, and it takes more than one glance through a barroom binocular to enable even a democrat to see the remains of the democratic dead bird in the Oregon pit. Mr Noltner is puzzled because east of the mountains the wealthy wool-growers are good democrats, while west of the mountains there is no wool interest to speak of. Mr Noltner states the interesting fact that "the rampant democracy live at a distance from railroads and telegraphs," and he evidently had some hope that the "back towns" would soften the extent of the reported disaster. On the whole Mr Noltner thinks it was the sack which enabled the sheep or rampant republicanism to put to rout rampant democracy.

To this opinion of the educated, cultivated, not to say philosophical closet statesmen of the democracy there is opposed the judgment of those tramp statesmen of the sidewalk, whose intuitional wisdom is always colored with racy candor of speech and not seldom instinct with saving common sense. The tramp democratic statesman declares that the sack is not the true solution of the defeat, and he declines to believe that it was the "lack of education on the subject of the tariff" that discomfited the democracy.

Said one of these tramp statesmen yesterday: "The sack will not explain it, for we were beaten where there is no sack to speak of on either side, and so far as tariff education is concerned we were beaten not because of the lack of it, but because we had too much of it. If Professor Roby wants to see the democratic party utterly die out in Oregon he has only to continue to educate the rank and file on the subject of the tariff. Why, this d—d debate over the tariff that imported Irish eloquence was our ruin; there was death in the discussion. Before the debate began we could rest secure on the virgin ignorance of the democratic farmer and working man, who under their local leaders would have voted solid for the party ticket. The party was enthused ignorance before Irish arrived and was therefore in first rate fighting condition, but Irish opened fire, and every time he shot clean over the republican house and hurt his democratic granny. His defense of Cleveland's message, his exposition of the Mills bill, was a direct challenge which was promptly taken up by THE OREGONIAN and the republican local speakers, and by the night of the election the tariff debate had educated a large number of democratic farmers and workingmen into a determination to vote the republican ticket. The federal office holders who imported Irish to educate the democracy have succeeded, but in educating it they have decimated it. Another thirty days of Irish and there would not be more than enough democrats left in Oregon to support a saloon at Pendleton, or a dog-fight at Astoria. All the democrats who have hitherto been employed in any other local industries than these would have gone over to the republican camp in a body. We aint afraid of the republican sack, for two can play at that game and the voters we have lost aint purchasable, but when you come to tariff education it was to the Oregon democracy what old Burchard was to Blaine—the blundering architect of ruin. THE OREGONIAN answered Irish by asking him if in order to give the Louisiana sugar growers a market amounting to $15,000,000 per annum the American people did not pay in taxes to the government $60,000,000 and in tax to the combined sugar refiners about $20,000,000? It asked him if this wasn't paying pretty dear when, with a surplus revenue of $100,000,000 we could better afford to put sugar on the free list than wool. It asked him what fairness to the farmer there was in a tariff reduction scheme that put wool on the free list and left woolen goods protected. Irish could not give any answer, the only answer that the wretched democratic press could give was to stamp and swear and throw the mud of personal abuse at the editor of THE OREGONIAN and republican speakers, who were only trying to help Brother Irish to complete the tariff education of his party. No, it wasn't the sack; it wasn't the lack of tariff education, it was too much education on the tariff that beat us. Hereafter when it comes to educating our party on the subject of tariff reform, my motto is, 'No Irish need apply.'"

The number of delegates to the republican national convention which meets at Chicago a week from Tuesday next will be 820, divided as follows:

Delegates at large	[illegible]
District delegates	650
Delegates from the territories	16
Total	820

The democratic national convention that has just adjourned contained the same number of delegates. In the republican convention a majority of the votes or 411 will nominate, but in democratic national conventions since 1844, it has required a two thirds vote to nominate candidates. The history of the adoption of the two thirds rule by the democracy is as follows: When the democratic national convention met at Baltimore May 27, 1844, Martin Van Buren, elected president in 1836, but beaten by Harrison for re-election in 1840, was again in the field as a candidate and his friends claimed for him a full majority of the convention. The partisans of James Buchanan and of Lewis Cass united to beat Van Buren, and after the organization of the convention a resolution was introduced declaring it would require two-thirds of all the votes in convention to nominate the candidate. The bitter debate over this resolution lasted nearly all day and finally when the roll was called the two-thirds vote was adopted by a vote of 148 to 118, and it has remained the rule of the democratic party in national conventions ever since. Among the few prominent survivors of that convention of 1844, which nominated James K. Polk for president, is the venerable historian, George Bancroft, who became secretary of the navy in the cabinet of President Polk.

In 1884 Cleveland's plurality in New York was but 1047, in Connecticut 1279, in New Jersey 4412, and in Indiana 6527. These pluralities were all obtained upon reform pretenses which have long ago ceased to deceive save in Indiana, where the great personal popularity of Hendricks floated the Cleveland mill stone. But Hendricks is dead, leaving no democratic leader heir either to his brains or his social influence, and in the state election of 1886 the republicans carried Indiana, electing their whole state ticket by an average plurality of nearly 4000, and eleven congressmen out of thirteen. The aggregate republican majority on members of the lower house of the legislature was nearly 10 000. It is clear therefore that the republicans have more than an even chance to carry Indiana and Connecticut.

In another place we reproduce a remarkable wail from the democratic paper at Pendleton. The same paper in another article says that "the republican hogs are still unsatisfied, though they elected much more than any of them expected." This brother's case is a bad one.

Oregon is getting a great deal of celebrity through the surprise created all over the country by the result of her election. The associated press at New York has telegraphed for the official returns by counties, requesting that they be wired in full as early as possible.

Last Monday the total vote of Portland and near suburbs which will be incorporated within the consolidated city was 8614. This would indicate a population of about 45 000.

A DOUBLE-BARRELED WAIL.

The following article is from the democratic paper at Pendleton. THE OREGONIAN had no idea the brother would be hurt so badly by the result of the election. He cries out in the bitterness of his soul, and his cry is so grotesque a mixture of rage, spite, anguish, malice, stupidity and despair, that we reproduce it entire as a curiosity, viz:

> THE OREGONIAN says there are too many republicans in the legislature. It says "it is not a good thing for the state that any party should have so great a preponderance in the legislature." Elsewhere the same paper ridicules and abuses the democratic party and everybody who chooses to vote the democratic ticket. It does not admit that any democrat in the United States is fit to hold office, and regrets that any democrat can exercise the right of suffrage. It claims and argues upon all occasions that a democrat is an enemy to the country and unfit to be trusted with any public business whatever. Yet it says that so large a republican majority in the legislature is not good.
>
> This is poor logic. If there is no good except in republicans and nothing but what is wrong and vile and traitorous, as is claimed, in democrats, then surely the more republicans and the less democrats the better. THE OREGONIAN, instead of regretting the large preponderance of republicans, ought rather to regret that a single democrat is left in the legislature to dishonor the state and plot for its ruin. It ought to call upon the republicans, now that they are such a great and overwhelming majority, to oust the [illegible] democratic traitors and devils who have [illegible] or who hold their seats by virtue of former election. If THE OREGONIAN is to be believed they are enemies of the state, enemies of every good, and not one such should be left to plot ruin and damnation to the country. Instead of there being too many republicans, there are too many democrats as long as one is left to disgrace and try to destroy the state. Not one should be permitted to remain in any position of public trust or honor.
>
> The trouble with THE OREGONIAN is that it is wholly insincere and [illegible] and it knows it is so, well and feels it so keenly that it cannot help occasionally betraying itself. It knows [illegible] well that the whole republican scheme of protection, which it [illegible] supports, is a robbery and a crime. It knows very well that the tariff on lumber is a [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] iniquity, and [illegible] all so [illegible] it stands in just such [illegible] the plunderers at the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] away [illegible] [illegible] rubbish [illegible].
>
> But all this need not be argued [illegible] one way or the other. THE OREGONIAN has assisted in electing men who it knows and has repeatedly declared were enemies of the public and [illegible] of every interest of the people in this state. Now it is beginning to regret that it has so large a majority in the legislature under the control of these men. For our part we are glad there are so many republicans in the legislature. For our part we hope Dolph will be elected United States senator next year and [illegible] [illegible] two years [illegible]. We hope the farmers of the interior will have to pay just such freight rates as may be dictated by the railroad attorneys—as they surely will—until it will take everything they produce to pay for a republican ballot. We hope the democrats will not be permitted to frame or even suggest a single matter or measure of public policy for the next two years, and only regret that the governor is a democrat during that time. We can endure with the rest, to see the republican policy of plunder of the people—for that is what it is—carried out. We can submit as well as the rest to see the power of the railroad monopoly increase and gain complete ascendency. The time will come when we shall see these wrongs righted, when the people will see what slaves they are and whose, when these public enemies and plunderers who now so gloat and triumph, will be humiliated and crushed.
>
> But THE OREGONIAN, believing as it does, or rather talking as it does, has no reason to regret too many republicans. Its only regret should be that a single democrat is left in the legislature to plot the state's destruction.

A HOME MADE WAGON

Passing the corner of Fourth and Madison streets yesterday a reporter dropped into the large wagon and carriage shop of S. B. McBride & Co. The Union Carriage Factory are now turning out a large quantity of ordered work. Nothing is being built for the trade, and the company find all it can do to fill the many orders. The reporter found a large and very handsomely finished furniture wagon for the enterprising firm of Jennings Bros, furniture dealers and upholsterers, corner of Front and Morrison. It combines strength, durability and elegance; in fact, is a perfect beauty in the vehicle line. Mr Richards, who is the chief painter for the firm, is a most finished and artistic workman. To-day Jennings Bros. will take out this new and beautiful wagon on the street for the first time.

NEWS FROM THE EAST SIDE

An Officer Ignorantly Assists in Trying to Kidnap a Woman.

Something About the Success of Stephens Addition School—Burdette to Talk in Church—News Notes.

Marshal McMillan succeeded in making the arrest of two men from Tacoma yesterday morning—Chas. M. Myers and E. R. Marquam. Myers and Marquam are the ones referred to as having caused a disturbance at the adventist camp ground Monday night. The particulars of the case as near as can be ascertained are as follows: Mrs. Myers, wife of Chas. M. Myers, who was arrested, came over from Tacoma some time ago. She had been separated from her husband for some reason not known. He followed her. Monday night the lady attended services at the camp ground. Her husband, in company with Marquam and Officer Howe, went to the grounds and attempted to take the woman and force her into a hack for the purpose of carrying her away. It is stated that Howe went into the tent and brought the woman out. The affair caused quite a commotion, and several on the grounds interfered, when Officer Howe kept them back. In the wrangle the woman got away and the two men with Howe went to the recorder's office and wanted a warrant. Mr. Llewellyn asked Myers what charges he had to make. The latter replied that the woman was his wife and he wanted to take her home. The recorder told the man that while it was a great misfortune for the woman it was no crime for her to be his wife, and no warrant could nor would be issued for her arrest. The two men went away. The recorder instructed Howe to watch the men and see that they did not get away. He did not do so and only last night were they secured. The remarkable feature of the affair was that a peace officer should have assisted Myers in his attempt to kidnap the woman. When asked to explain the part he took he said, "Why the woman was the man's wife and he had the marriage certificate with him." Such profound ignorance is not found often in an officer, and this case is without a parallel. Marshal McMillan suspended Howe and took away his star. It is due to Howe to say he was entirely conscientious and thought he was doing his duty. The trial of Myers and Marquam has been set for next Tuesday and J. F. Caples will conduct the defense.

STEPHENS SCHOOL.

While other schools on the east side have been quite generally written up, not much has been said concerning Stephens addition school. It is proper that the public should know that the school has enjoyed a prosperous year. There have been six grades taught in the building during the past year. The enrollment was 280. Prof. Walter Johnson is principal and he is assisted by Miss L. B. Davey, Miss Sophia Walker, Miss Anna Campbell, Miss Alvina Gronier and Miss Eugenia Craig. There has been an increase of about eighty pupils this year over the attendance last year. Progress in all branches has been very satisfactory to the patrons and they have so expressed themselves. The instructors are and all have been faithful and efficient, and sought only the advancement of the pupils. They have succeeded well. Literary entertainments and exercises have been given through the year which showed that the pupils are learning to think and are well up in their work. An organ was purchased out of the proceeds of the entertainments and a library has been started containing already sixty volumes of general literature. Stephens addition has a fine school building and a good school under efficient management.

NOTES.

The real estate offices are besieged with applicants for houses.

The work of repairing Fourth street bridge has been commenced.

Rev. I. D. Driver has gone to Walla Walla to attend a campmeeting near Waitsburg. He will be absent over Sunday.

A gentleman from the East contemplates renting the vacant storerooms in the Breyman block for a mercantile house.

The members of the graduating class of the East Portland Highschool will have a grand reunion during commencement week.

The half block belonging to the Garrigan estate on D street, was valued at $5000 during the Villard boom. It was sold the other day for $3000.

Otto Kleeman, the architect, will go to Mount Angel to-day, where he has charge of the erection of a convent building. He will be absent only a few days.

Real estate has not been selling very rapidly this week, owing to public attention being absorbed in the election. It will move more briskly next week.

The republican primaries, for the election of delegates to the city convention, will be held in each of the four wards Monday, June 11, between 5 and 8 P. M.

A horse William Harris was riding near Pleasant Home Sunday [illegible] and fell back on the man, injuring him severely. He was unconscious for about two hours after the accident.

George E. [illegible] has just returned from a trip to Idaho. He reports the country about Pendleton and La Grande very prosperous. He further reports that the wool growers in Eastern Oregon voted with the republicans in a body.

Rev. Daniel Shafer who recently resigned the pastorship of the Congregational church in Holladay's addition, will go to Forest Grove on the 15th of this month. Mr. Shafer has been a faithful pastor, and one and all wish him success in his new field of labor. He will be succeeded by Rev. H. C. Rominger, of Albany.

A lively runaway took place yesterday in the northern portion of the city. In some way the team attached to a light wagon loaded with cherries and strawberries (owner unknown) started in McMillan's addition, and ran around among the stumps quite awhile, and finally came down to Holladay avenue, where they were stopped. The fruit was distributed quite generally over the country.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

The supreme court on Thursday made a number of important and interesting decisions. Following are the syllabi:

I. W. Case, respondent, vs. F. A. Noyes, garnishee appellant. Appeal from Clatsop county; judgment reversed; opinion by Strahan, J.

Remedy Garnishment.—The remedy by garnishment is purely statutory, and to make it available the essential requisites of the statutes must be complied with.

Garnishee Service of Allegations and Interrogatories.—After a garnishee has been required to appear and answer, and before the day fixed for that purpose, or within a time to be specified in the order, the plaintiff may serve upon him written allegations and interrogatories, and without such allegations there is no foundation for any further proceedings against such garnishee.

Allegations Against Garnishee.—The allegations provided by the code were designed to enable the plaintiff to bring upon the record the cause of action which the original defendant had against the garnishee and to which the plaintiff has become subrogated by virtue of the attachment.

Interrogatories Answers.—The answers which the garnishee is required to make to the interrogatories which must be served with the allegations were designed to further aid the plaintiff in bringing distinctly and clearly before the court the facts in relation to the property attached in the hands of the garnishee and might be used as evidence upon the trial against the garnishee.

Garnishee—Mode of Trial.—Proceedings against a garnishee on an attachment as execution issued in an action at law are strictly a proceeding at law and the mode of trial is the same as in an action at law. It is in no sense equitable, and the mode of trial in a suit in equity cannot be resorted to.

W. N. Northrup et al., appellants, vs. P. A. Marquam, respondent; appeal from Multnomah county; opinion by Strahan, J. Modifying former opinion as to the interest in the land in controversy, which descended to Mrs. Northrup upon the death of Hettie Northrup.

Statute of Limitations When Once Commenced to Run Not Stopped or Arrested.—The rule is of almost universal application that when the statute of limitations is set in motion or commences to run it will not cease to be arrested by any subsequent event not within the saving clause of the statute.

G. F. Beers, appellant, vs. Dalles City, respondent; appeal from Wasco county; judgment of the court below reversed and the case remanded with directions to overrule the demurrer and for such further proceedings as may be according to law and the practice of the court. Opinion by Strahan, J.

Corporation—Power, Charter.—A corporation being the creation of the law it possesses only those properties which the charter of its creation confers upon it either expressly or as incidental to its very existence.

Charter of Dalles City—Power of Council—Sewers.—Section 63, acts 1880, page 1, incorporating Dalles City, confers upon the common council of the city power without limit or restriction to establish a system of sewerage, and to construct and repair drains and sewers. Sections 63 and 91 when construed together. Under section 63, the council might exercise the power in any suitable manner, and the expense would be payable out of the general fund of the city, but section 91 enables the council, in its discretion, to charge the cost of drains and sewers upon the property directly benefited. If the council fail to exercise this discretion and to charge the expense on the property, it is payable out of the general fund.

Municipal Corporation Power—How Exercised.—When the common council of a municipal corporation is vested with full power over a subject and the mode of the exercise of such power is not limited by the charter, it may exercise it in any manner most convenient. In such case the corporation may act by agents and make contracts to carry into effect the granted powers the same as individuals.

Municipal Corporation Liability.—Unless prohibited by its charter a municipal corporation is liable when a person is employed for it by one assuming to act in its behalf and such person renders the services according to the agreement, with the knowledge of its officers and without notice that it is not recognized as valid and binding.

Sec. 128 of the Charter—Ordinance Contract in Writing.—The application of this section is limited to the cases where the power of the corporation must be exercised by ordinance, under the charter, and when the work must be let to the lowest responsible bidder, after notice. It does not apply to cases when the council is directly authorized to do the work without such formalities.

J. W. Coffin, resp., vs. A. D. Taylor, app.; appeal from Wasco; judgment of the lower court affirmed. Opinion by Strahan, J.

Instructions—Bill of Exceptions—Assignments of Error.—No assignments of error can be made or will be considered unless the error appears from the bill of exceptions or some other part of the judgment roll.

Chattel Mortgage—Future Advances.—A chattel mortgage may be made to secure future advances but if no advances be made under such mortgage, it cannot be enforced by the mortgagee. As between the parties to such mortgage, if no advances be made it never becomes a lien on the property described therein for any sum, because there was nothing due, and an attempted sale of the property by the mortgagee and purchase thereof by him does not divert the title of the mortgagor.

Replevin—Damages.—In an action of replevin if the plaintiff prevail he is entitled to recover damages for the wrongful taking and detention of the property from the time when taken to the rendition of the judgment.

Replevin—Measure of Damages.—The jury may consider the nature and character of the property in controversy, and if the plaintiff prevail in the action award him such damages as the use of the property was worth during the time of the detention.

Instructions—Presumption.—When the record is silent as to what instructions the court gave the jury, the legal intendment is that they were properly instructed. He who alleges error must make it affirmatively appear from the record.

Hiram Brown and C. H. Page, app., vs. F. O. Corson et al., resps.; appeal from Multnomah; judgment of the lower court affirmed. Opinion by Strahan, J.; Lord, C. J., dissenting.

Congressional grant to aid in construction of the O. & C. R. R.—Land Pre-empted.—By the terms of the act of congress of July 25, 1866, granting lands to aid in the construction of the O. & C. railroad, lands on odd sections within the twenty mile limit which had been pre-empted did not pass to the company by the terms of the grant, but were excepted out of such grant.

Evidence—Preemption.—A paper certified by the register of the land office to be a correct copy of the form of pages 16 and 161 of the register of declaratory statements on file in said office and which is headed "Register of declaratory statements under act of congress of September 4, 1841, and amendments thereto" and which contains a description of the land in question, etc., is not sufficient proof that the land described therein had been pre-empted at the time the railroad grant attached.

Pre-emption—How Acquired.—A pre-emption is a right derived wholly from statute, and a substantial compliance with the statute is necessary to its acquisition, which compliance must be shown by competent evidence.

What Evidence Necessary to Prove.—The evidence offered must show that the conditions existed which would enable the pre-emptor to acquire the land under the law and that he had performed at least enough to give him some inchoate right to the land.

Covenant to Warranty—Breach—Evidence.—In an action founded on a covenant of warranty in a deed when the grantee surrenders to another title without judicial process he must prove the existence of such paramount outstanding hostile title and that it was asserted.

At common law a general judgment against an executor who did not plead plene administravit, or praeter, is conclusive evidence of assets in a second action of debt suggesting a devastavit. The only qualification being that a matter arising subsequent to the former action showing a destruction of the assets or removal of them from the hand of the executor without fault may be set up.

A party can come into a court of equity for relief after a judgment at law only when he has been deprived of a legal right by fraud, accident or mistake unmixed with negligence or fault on his part.

An executor or administrator in founding a right to such relief must exhibit a case free from negligence or misconduct.

When an executor or administrator believing that he has assets sufficient to pay all debts, suffers judgment against himself, he will be relieved in equity, if the assets become insufficient through an unexpected depreciation of their value. The reason is that the defense arises subsequently to the judgment and without fault of the administrator.

But if an executor or administrator confesses judgment against himself for a debt of his testator or intestate upon a miscalculation of assets in his hands and it appears afterwards that the assets are insufficient to satisfy it he will not be relieved in equity against the judgment.

When the trial of a case, involving an issue of fact, is had without a jury, and the court directs a judgment but fails to give a decision in writing stating the facts found and conclusions of law, as required by the code, such judgment is irregular and should be set aside upon the attention of the court being called to the fact. A judgment so entered is not void but may be rendered so either upon motion to the court in which it is entered or upon appeal to a superior court.

When in proceedings of mandamus to compel the defendant, who is county treasurer, to pay the plaintiff warrants held by him duly drawn upon the defendant as such treasurer, it was ascertained in an issue made upon the return of an alternative writ that the defendant had funds sufficient to pay such warrants at the time they were presented to him applicable to the payment thereof and that the warrants presented were legal claims against the county.

Held, that the judgment should direct the issuance of a peremptory writ commanding the defendant to pay the warrants forthwith.

The right of a plaintiff in a mandamus proceeding to recover costs, under the code of this state, does not depend upon his recovering damages therein. He is entitled to costs as a matter of course, upon obtaining the relief sought.

AN INSULT TO OREGON

PORTLAND, June 8, 1888.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

The report you gave us this morning of the proceedings of the St. Louis convention has filled me with indignation. As an Oregonian I am hugely disgusted. California has carried off the laurels. California delegates nominated Thurman. California delegates took Thurman snuff till the whole convention sneezed and called for bandana handkerchiefs with which to wipe their running noses and moistened eyes.

When California was called Tarpey bravely sprang to his feet and backed the nomination of Thurman with an eloquent speech. When Oregon was called there was no response. Where was Noltner? Was he waiting with extended hand for a bandana after Tarpey had got done using it? Where was our illustrious governor whose nomination was expected along with that of Cleveland by our Oregon democracy—a nomination which would have made the United States supreme court shake in its boots and carried Oregon next November by over 100,000 majority for the democratic ticket, and free trade. When it was found our governor had no chance why didn't our delegates break up the convention? Why didn't our executive follow the example of Jo Lane who, when he found that the Douglas candidates were too strong for the pro slavery secession adherents of Breckenridge and Lane, telegraphed to our Oregon delegates "Go out and stand." Why didn't they "go out and stand" as Oregon did at Charleston? Why like true Oregonians didn't they make a gallant fight? Why didn't they even present the name of our illustrious hero whom nobody over there had probably ever heard of, instead of bowing their heads and wiping their noses on second hand bandanas?

California was honored by a place on the committee appointed to carry the unexpected news to Cleveland that he was nominated and that Thurman was to sit by his side instead of Pennoyer. Here Oregon was overlooked. Thurman telegraphed that he wanted the Californians to stay off and see him. Here Oregon was slighted. Ohio sent presents of pearl snuff boxes to the California delegation while our delegates were left to beg a pinch of snuff from California and wipe their noses on second hand California bandanas. This was a direct insult to Oregon.

What badge of respect did our delegates get? What flag that they could wave next November as an indication of how the presidential election had gone? Nothing but a piece of crape for the hat and another for the right wrist. Have I not a right to feel indignant at our treatment at St. Louis? Now what was it all for?

Was it because Oregon sent Grant, Hooker and Sheridan over to prevent the Jeff Davis democracy from stopping Lincoln and his hirelings from trampling on the constitution? Was it because Oregon in 1860 secured at the Chicago convention the nomination of an ape for president? Or was it because our voters closed their ears to a message from the White house, delivered through Irish and voted as though they couldn't see much democracy much less for a poor laboring man in free wool and high tariff sugar? We have been treated at St. Louis as though Oregon was a cipher—had no votes to give next fall. But we have though. To be sure, I am told by men from every part of Oregon—I heard many democrats say on election day as they walked up with a republican ticket without a scratch: "I have voted the democratic ticket all my life but I have cast my last vote for that party."

Yet we have a few democratic voters left and they have rights which democratic conventions ought to respect. We have Asahel Bush, Judge Waite, Jo Teal, Jim Hembree and other gray veterans in the ranks who stand as grand, gloomy and peculiar, as the basaltic foundations of Tillamook head. W. L. T.

Beauty's chaplet none may wear
Unless teeth show ample care.
Gums so healthy, hard and red,
Lips like roses, fragrance shed;
These by SOZODONT made sweet,
Every sense with gladness greet.

A LOOK AT THE VOTE.

Examination of the Multnomah Returns by a Democrat Who "Doesn't Feel Crushed."

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 8.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

I trust that in your hour of victory you will not object to democratic tariff-reformers endeavoring to extract a little honey of consolation out of the gall of defeat. I write particularly of the vote of Multnomah county, the official returns of which are available and concerning which I have some little acquaintance. This morning you publish the official vote of Multnomah county for 1888, and the returns from other counties have not yet been published, so I am unable to make comparisons as to them. All of the following figures are the official vote taken by me as published in THE DAILY OREGONIAN for each election.

In order to get a fair comparison, I take the elections of the last eight years to show total vote, increase of vote and majorities. In 1880 and 1884, the years of presidential elections, I give both the June and November vote. The June vote is the vote for congressman.

1880 (VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN IN JUNE)

CANDIDATES	Vote	Majority	Total Vote
George (R)	[illegible]
Whiteaker (D)	[illegible]	[illegible]	5039

1880 (VOTE FOR PRESIDENT IN NOVEMBER)

CANDIDATES	Vote	Majority	Total vote	Increase
Garfield (R)	3211
Hancock (D)	2719	492	5930	891

Thus it is seen that while Garfield received 114 more votes in November 1880 than George the republican candidate for congressman received in June 1880, Hancock received 1777 more votes at the same election than Whiteaker, the democratic candidate for congressman, received in June 1880.

1882, (VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN IN JUNE)

CANDIDATES	Vote	Majority	Total vote	Increase
George (R)	4,209
Penton (D)	2,950	[illegible]	[illegible]	1,220

This increase of 1220 in the total vote in two years is the difference between the total number of votes for congressman in 1880 and 1882. The increase by taking the difference between the total number of votes for president in 1880 and the total number of votes for congressman in 1882, is 329, which I suppose was not caused by Garfield's candidacy in 1880.

By examining the vote for congressman in 1880 and 1882 it will be seen that the republican vote increased 1112 and the democratic vote increased 98 in those two years.

1884 (VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN IN JUNE)

CANDIDATES	Vote	Majority	Total vote	Increase
Hermann (R.)	5535
Myers (D.)	3464	2071	8999	2740

1884, (VOTE FOR PRESIDENT IN NOVEMBER)

CANDIDATES	Vote	Majority	Total vote	Decrease
Blaine (R.)	5059
Cleveland (D.)	3880	1179	8939	60

This decrease of 60 in the total votes between June and November amounts to nothing and the June and November vote is practically the same in so large a vote. But the republican majority in June, 1884, was 2071 and in November, 1179, being a democratic gain of 892 between June and November. The increase of 2740 is the increase from the election of 1882 to that of 1884.

1886—VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN IN JUNE

CANDIDATES	Vote	Plurality	Total Vote	Decrease
Hermann (R)	4332
Butler (D)	3266
Miller (P)	376	1066	7974	1025

It will be remembered that the election of 1886 was a peculiar one. The republican candidate for congress was largely handicapped by the candidacy of unpopular men on the republican ticket for state offices and in consequence many republicans stayed away from the polls. The decrease in the republican vote shows this. Let us take the vote for congressman for 1884 and 1886.

CANDIDATES	1884	1886	Decrease
Hermann (R)	5535	4332	1203
Myers (D)	3464
Butler (D)		3266	198

In 1886 Miller, the prohibition candidate for congress, received 376 votes, which was made up of both republicans and democrats. But these 376 votes are estimated in the above table of votes for 1886 showing a total decrease in the vote of Multnomah county of 1025 since 1884.

No person conversant with the facts will for a moment claim that the population of Multnomah county was less in 1886 than it was in 1884. Every resident of Oregon in 1886 knows the unpopularity of the republican candidates for state offices in that year, partly personal and partly due to the manner of the nomination of some of them. The success of the democratic candidates in this county with the exception of Gov. Pennoyer was due to the silent but effectual protest of republicans staying away from the polls. Had all the republicans of Multnomah county voted in 1886 Judge Waldo would have been elected in spite of the opposition in his own party.

Now let us examine the vote for this year's election.

1888—VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN IN JUNE

CANDIDATES	Vote	Plurality	Total vote	Increase
Hermann (R)	5981
Gearin (D)	3227
Miller (P)	176	2754	9384	1410

This increase of 1410 in the total votes is the increase over the vote of 1886. The circumstances connected with 1886 must be kept in mind. Let us see the increase and decrease on the total vote for congressman compared with 1884.

CANDIDATES	1884	1888
Hermann (R)	5535	5981
Myers (D)	3464
Gearin (D)		3227
Miller (P)		176

Hermann's increase in 1888 over his vote in 1884 is only 446. Gearin's (D) decrease from the vote for Myers (D) in 1884 is only 237. Gearin's decrease from the vote for Butler (D) in 1886 is 39 only. The prohibition vote in 1886 was 376; in 1888 it was 176, a decrease of exactly 200. These 200 votes, or most of them, I think went back to the republican party and made up that much of his increased vote. Gearin has been prominent in Multnomah county politics for several years past and of course has made enemies in his own party as any prominent politician must. Part of the Multnomah county delegation to the state convention openly opposed his nomination. Besides he was prosecuting attorney for two years and in his prosecutions he must have made enemies. I am not arguing against Gearin's candidacy, for he made a gallant fight. I am merely stating facts to show why his vote is 39 less than Butler's vote two years ago.

The republican party was united on its candidate for congress at this election. It is true, as THE OREGONIAN stated editorially just before the election, the republicans were fighting for the whole ticket because it was the republican ticket and not for the individuals who were the candidates.

While I do not claim that all the voters who stayed away from the polls at the last election were democrats I do claim that the vast majority of the non voters were democrats, for there has not been an election here since the last presidential election that the republicans were as united and working as hard for republican success as at this last June election.

Any person conversant with the growth of Multnomah county in the last four years knows that it has increased in population not less than 15,000, an increase in the voting population of about 3000 votes. And yet the republicans with all their work increased their total vote on congressman but 446 over the vote of 1884.

While the tariff question may have had some influence I believe that influence was small and that the real reason for the size of the republican majority in this county was the apathy of democrats caused by jealousies and dissensions in the democratic party due wholly to local issues. And also to the lack of organization for which the whole party in this county is responsible. After the county convention the democrats of Multnomah county became a mob, and while our committees tried to do their best, their efforts could amount to but little with the party in the condition it was. I do not censure anyone but I wish to explain the size of the republican majority in this county. I don't wish a defeat due to our petty local fights to be laid to the door of a great national question.

I with other tariff reformers do not feel crushed by the result of the election, and I should not be surprised if in November the republican plurality were reduced [illegible] more than half. For in 1880 the republican majority of [illegible] was reduced to 492 in November, and in 1884 the republican majority of 2071 in June was reduced to 1179 in November.

If such results were due in both 1880 and in 1884 to the better organization of the democratic party in November than in June, [illegible]

FREDERICK V. HOLMAN.

TO ILLUMINATE SEVERAL SNOW PEAKS

PORTLAND, June 8.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

A suggestion in this morning's paper that the Fourth of July committee and the Oregon Alpine Club co-operate in illuminating Mount Hood this year. The suggestion is certainly a good one and can be carried out better now than then, for the reason as your comments say that the snow is entirely off of the range. Besides this the experience of last year is worth a great deal, and instead of having a full moon to contend with, there will be none at all at the appointed time this year. To add novelty to a novel scheme why would it not be a good idea to not only illuminate Hood but Adams and St. Helens at the same moment? This could be done and if Tacoma and Seattle could co-operate, Rainier and Baker could be added to the list. If such a scheme could be carried out there is no civilized land so distant but what would hear of it and wonder what manner of people these are, anyway, that thus celebrate the glorious Fourth. As I understand it, the object of the Alpine Club is to advertise our scenery, and in what other way could it be done by one stroke so effectually? The object of the Fourth of July committee is to celebrate the Fourth. The Alpine Club has the facilities for doing the work successfully but has not got the money. The committee will probably have the money, but not the facilities. Can any two organizations harmonize more nicely? The question now is, will the committee furnish the money and will the club do the work? Last year more than a thousand dollars were spent for rockets and less than half the expenses of the Mount Hood trip paid by the committee. The people know which proved more satisfactory. Another suggestion might not be out of place, which is that our advertising committee might materially assist in the matter and thus advertise the Northwest effectually. Between the Alpine Club, the Fourth of July and advertising committees, Seattle and Tacoma, what is to hinder the plan from being carried out? I. C.

Lewis County News.

WINLOCK, W. T., June 5.

The rain which has prevailed throughout this section the past ten days has been of incalculable benefit to the growing crops, in many places literally being the salvation. The uncommon hard winter had almost destroyed some of the oat and wheat fields and many farmers had resown them, but the spring turning off dry there were great probabilities that even this would not bring over half a crop, grass was short on the high lands especially, and with a dry summer in prospect farmers were wearing rather a dismal aspect. But now all is changed and with an ordinary summer this section will make an uncommon good harvest. Fruit had suffered also from drouth, especially berries, but large yields will be the result now.

Miss Mabel Enkert, a young lady attending school at the sisters' convent on Cowlitz prairie, accidentally swallowed a pin while dressing Sunday morning last. It lodged in her throat just out of reach and the sisters finding themselves unable to remove it took the girl to St. Vincent's hospital, Portland, where she was relieved in a few minutes and is now seemingly none the worse for it.

Brown & Son are erecting a building 60x180 feet adjoining their sawmill at Toledo for a sash and door factory, the machinery for which will be removed from Columbia county, Oregon, soon. A distillery is also being built at Toledo, the first it is said in the territory. The proprietor expects to buy Eastern Washington corn but can get all the rye he wants at home; rye succeeds excellently here. One man last year raising 320 bushels from five bushels of seed.

There are no waste lands in this county. Joel Hamilton left in the Pilot office a sample of wheat which he pulled June 1 from the highest and poorest ground anybody knows of, measuring six feet two inches high.

Lewis county people are already talking politics and the wires are being carefully laid by aspirants for office, almost every precinct in the county furnishing candidates. While the county is close, the republicans expect to carry it by safe majorities as they are enthusiastic and united. They are also much cheered by the good news from Oregon and expect to do their share toward making an unbroken republican vote on the Pacific. In this connection it may be remarked that thinking men everywhere have credited THE OREGONIAN with much of republican success in Oregon. The party is safe for victory here if it can choke off a number of professional politicians who are in it only for personal profit.

Thurman and Cleveland.

New York Tribune.

Mr. Thurman has committed errors in his public career but it is universally conceded that he is a statesman having a profound knowledge of our system of government, a man of dignified bearing in public life, thoroughly versed through his long service in congress in all practical questions of administration and in all ways better qualified to be president than Mr. Cleveland ever was to be sheriff. Mr. Thurman could probably forget in a few moments without any effort more than Cleveland has ever known in law and statesmanship and still not have his stock of knowledge greatly diminished.

If Mr. Thurman is to run at all it should be for president. It is true that he is seventy-five years old and somewhat infirm, but if Mr. Cleveland should be nominated for vice-president it would be considered tolerably sure that in case of election Mr. Thurman's death would find a comparatively young man solidly built and stout in the legs ready to take his place. Mr. Thurman as a trained statesman and a man of dignity of career and character would give us a far more presentable administration than Mr. Cleveland could do, while the latter would have ample opportunity during four years' silent occupancy of the presiding officer's chair in the senate to acquire a vast deal of useful information which he does not now possess.

Death of a Pioneer Woman.

Harriet, widow of the late Wm. A. Bird, of Clackamas county, Oregon, died at the residence of her son, M. I. Bird, in Castle Rock, W. T., June 5, 1888, of consumption, aged 67 years. Deceased was born in Kentucky, removed to Illinois where she was married, and with her husband crossed the plains to Oregon in 1847. They settled near Oregon City and resided there until death parted them a few years ago. Five daughters and two sons remain to mourn their loss. She died in the faith of her childhood, being converted to Christianity when almost a child by the earnest pleadings of the pioneer preachers of the Christian or Disciple church.

BAKER COUNTY MINES.

A Big Boom in this Section of Eastern Oregon.

Three Properties in the Cracker Creek District that will Become Widely Known—Large Capital being Invested.

Baker City Democrat.

This portion of the great commonwealth of Oregon has long borne the name and fame of a mineral producing country. The outside world has been told that here, within a radius of one hundred miles of Baker City, we have thousands of ledges of gold and silver bearing rock, that we have numerous gulches whose sands are bright with the precious metal. But beyond the simple fact that every year the mines of Eastern Oregon maintain an output of so many dollars and cents, varying little in the estimate one year with another, little is known of the true value of our mines or the amount of gold this country is capable of producing. It is within the experience of every man who has lived in a mining section the various drawbacks to which the miner unaided by capital is subjected. He may during his summer's prospecting, discover a promising ledge. The width of vein, the assayer's certificate and the favorable condition, such as accessibility, wood and water, etc., may all add to its marketable value, but if capital does not step in at this juncture it is a waste of time and his limited means for him to undertake its development. And yet this same thing has been done for the past twenty years in Baker county with one result for the poor prospector, "there's nothing in it for the man of limited means and still more limited experience in mining, there's nothing in it." But for the capitalist whose costly drill can penetrate where the miner's pick glances harmlessly off, there's millions in it.

Some time ago the Democrat voiced the prediction that within the near future Eastern Oregon would number among her properties a wealth producer that would be to her what the Comstock was to Nevada and what the Drum Lummon is to Montana. The advent of mining men during the past month from the markets of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and San Francisco, their favorable reports to the parties whom they represent, the alacrity with which those parties are taking hold of the opportunities presented, all point to a literal fulfillment of that prophecy. Vast sums of money have been expended here within the past two weeks, and small fortunes are now in transit to be exchanged for the greater ones now lying beneath the surface of the rock ribbed and ancient hills of Baker county.

The section which at this time appears to be attracting most attention lies in what is known as the Cracker creek and Cable Cove district, distant between twenty and thirty miles from Baker City, rich in mineral resources and extensive in territory. Within the past few days in the first-named district, several important transfers, involving thousands of dollars, have been made and we are reliably informed by parties whom we know to be in a position from which they can speak advisedly that negotiations far greater financially are now pending between owner and capitalist in each of these districts.

As a result of the sales already made, even the miner in Eastern Oregon is in a hopeful mood to-day. He sees in the investment of capital in his district all the good that usually accrues to the owner of a ledge in the neighborhood of a paying mine. Said an experienced miner to the Democrat reporter yesterday: "There are three properties (we omit the names) in the Cracker creek district that some day will make things hum loud enough to be heard outside of the state of Oregon." The gentleman referred to is known in mining circles as an able and reliable expert and when he told us that he had closely examined the properties mentioned we were quite willing to believe in the correctness of his theory.

It is rumored that four mills will be planted before very long in these districts. Of this, however, we have no positive assurance. But we do know that already preparations are being made for the accommodation of a hundred or more miners who are to be supplied with the latest improved mining machinery for the prosecution of their work. These and other signs point to but one conclusion, and that is that development work is soon to be engaged in that will determine what possibilities are in store for the miners of Eastern Oregon. With thousands of tons piled up on the dump and daily being added to, will come reduction works; with these will come help for the miner on a small scale; our mines, some of which are lying idle to-day for want of help to develop them, will each yield their proper quota. The country will boom then, and boom on a more substantial basis than climate or real estate.

FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTERS.

MEDA, Or., June 4.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

As a matter of justice I ask THE OREGONIAN to give its powerful support to the bill for the benefit of fourth class postmasters introduced by Mr. Stockdale of Mississippi. No class of government officials with as great responsibilities and under as heavy bonds are as poorly paid as these. Examining the registration books of any postmaster whose salary foots up from $6 to 12 per quarter and the absurdity of such pay for such responsibility will be at once apparent. Mr. Hermann and both our senators have agreed to support any just measure which shall receive the indorsement of the committee on postoffices and postroads, and that committee needs to be impressed with the fact that justice requires a relief bill for fourth class postmasters.

WALLACE YATES.

Death of a Mining Expert.

OMAHA, June 7.—Wm. McCaskell, well known on the Pacific slope as a mining expert, died to-day.

Liver Complaint

Is more surely and speedily cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, than by any other remedy. "I was a great sufferer from liver troubles, and never found anything that gave me permanent relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two years ago. A few bottles of this medicine produced a radical cure.—Wm. E. Baker, 155 W. Brookline st., Boston, Mass.

A Remarkable Cure.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured me of as bad a case of Abscess of the Liver as any human being could be afflicted with and live. I was confined to the house for two years, and, for the last three months of that time, was unable to leave my bed. Four physicians treated me without giving relief, and, in fact, nothing helped me until I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using a quarter of a bottle of this medicine I began to feel better, and every additional dose seemed to bring new health and strength. I used three bottles, and am now able to attend to my business. I walk to town—one mile distant—and return, without difficulty. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has accomplished all this for me.—W. S. Miner, Carson City, Mich.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Manly Purity and Beauty

No tongue nor pen can do justice to the esteem in which the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Having been a sufferer for two years and a half from a disease caused by a bruise on the leg, and having been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES when all other methods and remedies failed, I deem it my duty to recommend them. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried several doctors without success, and at last our principal druggist, Mr. John P. Finlay (to whom I shall ever feel grateful), spoke to me about CUTICURA, and I consented to give them a trial, with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is now no sore about me. I think I can show the largest surface where my sufferings sprang from of any one in the State.

A FINE HOTEL PROPERTY AT AUCTION

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13, 1888,

—THE—

St. George Hotel

PROPERTY AND FURNITURE,

PORTLAND,

Will be sold at auction, to settle up an estate. The property consists of a quarter of a block of land and a

Three-Story Fire-Proof Building and a Two-Story Residence.

It is on the main business street of the city, two blocks from the new railroad depot, and is considered the most favorably located hotel in Portland. The location is such that its rapid enhancement in value is certain.

The house can be kept crowded with first-class guests without bus or runners. As a speculation, this is a rare opportunity. As an investment, it is certain of large interest returns. As a location for business, it is one of the choicest in Portland. The building is comparatively new, having been erected five years ago. A brick and cemented basement extends the full size of the building. Terms of sale, one-half cash, balance on long time.

OHIO REPUBLICAN MEETING

Wm H West Still Talks of the "Peerless Statesman"

SPRINGFIELD Ohio June 8—Republicans of the Eighth congressional district held an enthusiastic meeting at Black's Opera house last night. The meeting was addressed by Wm H West, who nominated Blaine in '84 He said the idea of the meeting was not to antagonize any of the distinguished gentlemen in connection with the Chicago convention but merely to express the preference of the republicans of the district for a leader He doubted not that all these men were qualified for the high office of president—but personal strength with the people in addition to this qualification was demanded of the candidate this year He said Blaine was driven from the contest by the endorsement of Sherman at Toledo a year ago and stated his belief that the Florence and Paris letters would never have been written had it not been for that endorsement He expressed the belief that Blaine or Depew could poll 50,000 more votes in New York than any other candidate and Ohio ought to be mindful of that Resolutions were presented pledging support to the Chicago nominee but commending to the convention that "peerless statesman" James G Blaine, whose name is linked with certain victory"

GOVERNOR GRAY

He Expected Thurman's Nomination, and is Proud of His Own Support.

INDIANAPOLIS June 8—Gov Gray received the news of Thurman's nomination with complacency "I have had no other expectation for two days than that he would be nominated for vice president," he said "I have long thought that the man whom the New York delegation supported would be the nominee I think I should have had no trouble had it not been for Thurman's candidacy I think Thurman will carry the full strength of the party in this state I want to say with regard to my own candidacy that I feel prouder of the support I received at St Louis and at home at the hands of the party than I would be of any honor the convention could confer upon me"

A Fair Trial

of Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula salt rheum or any affection caused by impure blood is sufficient to convince any one of the superior and peculiar curative powers of this medicine The following statement is right to the point

My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became 6 years of age Lumps formed in her neck causing great annoyance and two of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, broke and discharged. One became a running sore for more than three years We thought we would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a thorough trial We began with it in January and in a few months after she had taken five bottles all suppuration had ceased We then waited three months, when, as a new lump was beginning to form, we again gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla. After she had taken less than two bottles the lump and all indications of scrofula had entirely disappeared and now she seems to be a healthy child J S CARLILE, Nauright N J

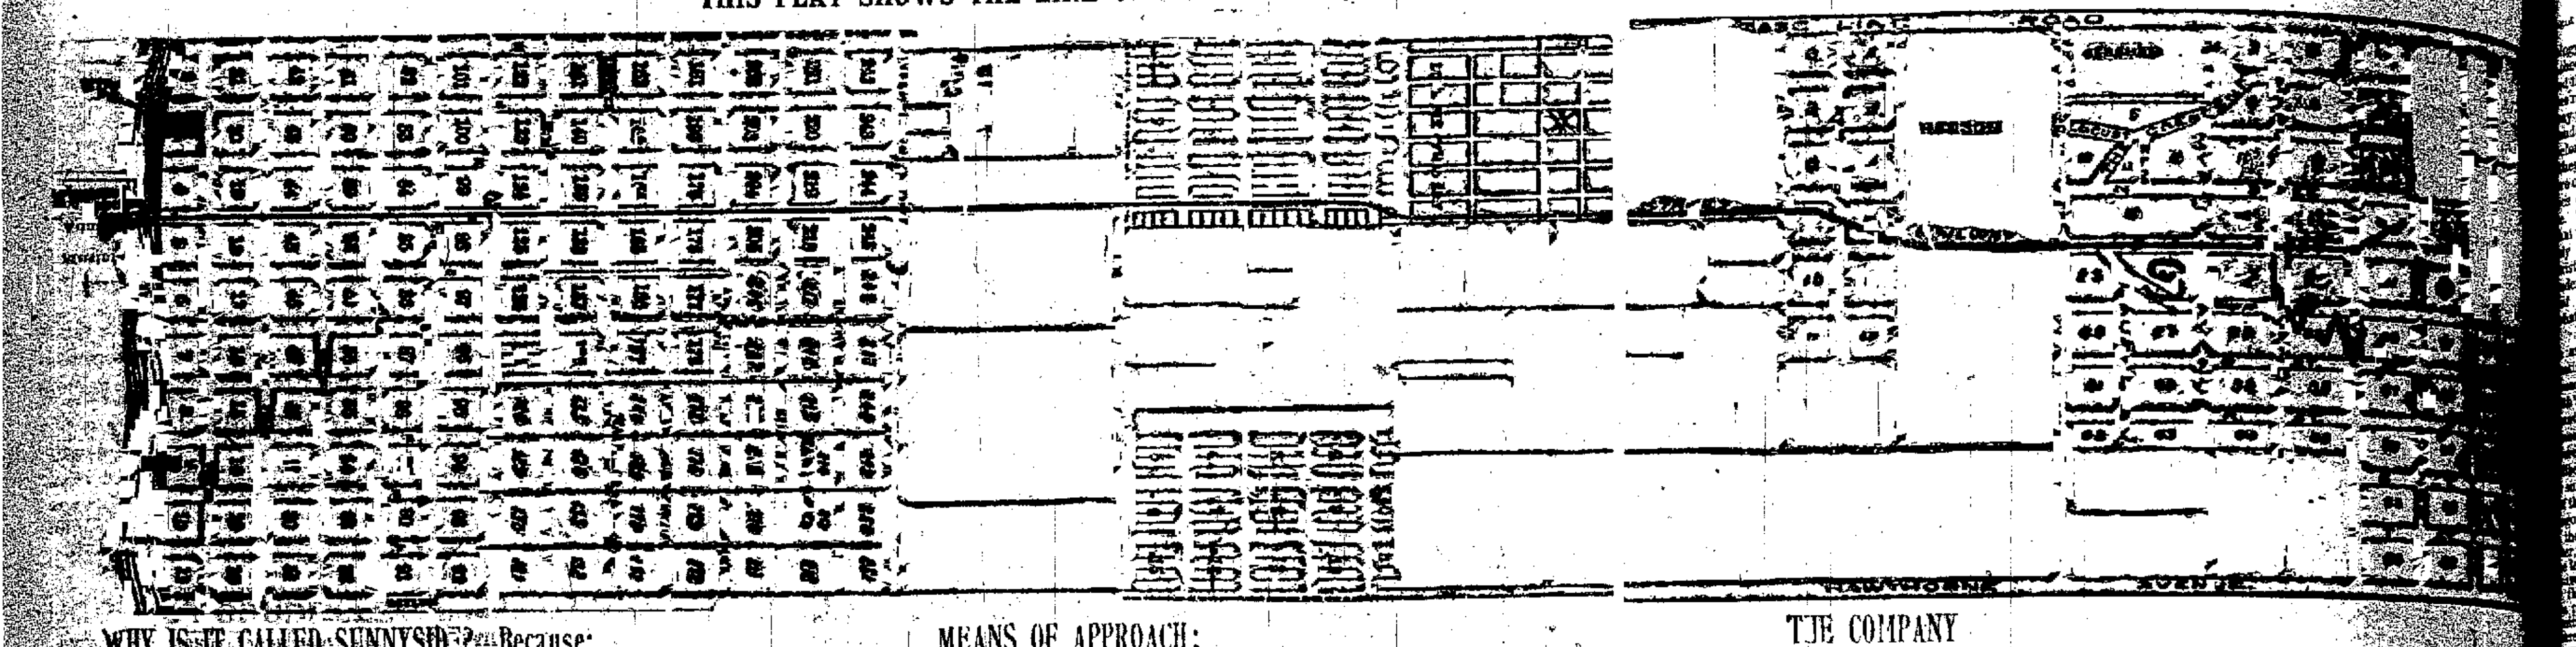
SUNNYSIDE!

THE COMING SUBURB OF PORTLAND

It Has No Equal,
Its Nearness to Business Centers,
Its Facilities of Approach,
Its Rich Soil,
Its Ample Water Supply,
Its Beauty and Healthfulness
Place it Far away above Competitors.

THIS PLAT SHOWS THE LINE OF RAILWAY FROM THE WILLAMETTE RIVER TO SUNNYSIDE:



WHY IS IT CALLED SUNNYSIDE? Because:

It is one of the Sunniest Tracts in Oregon.
It lies on the eastern limits of the city.
It catches the earliest beams of the rising sun.
In the morning, coming to town, the sun is not in your eyes.
Nor is it in your eyes returning in the evening.
This is one great advantage of an eastern suburb.

DISTANCE FROM WILLAMETTE RIVER:

Taking the foot of N street, East Portland, and the foot of Washington street, in Portland, as starting point, Sunnyside is distant, by traveled roads from the river just the same as 19th and J sts. in Portland, and less than two-thirds the distance of 22d and S streets, in Portland.

MEANS OF APPROACH:

The Steam Motor line will be complete and in operation the first week of July.

Time from Morrison St. to Sunnyside, 10 minutes; fare 5 cts

The cars will run every fifteen minutes each way, from 6 A. M., every day.

The Railway Co. are under heavy bonds to fulfill the conditions for 30 years.

The base line road bounds Sunnyside on the north.

It is now being macadamized in fine form.

Hawthorne avenue bounds it on the south. It is being widened 30 feet and improved.

These two will soon be the finest driving roads near Portland.
